FLEET ATTACKS MARSHALLS!

NAZIS OR REDS WILL CONQUER EUROPE: HITLER

Warns Germans of Hard Year Ahead.

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP).—Adolf Hitler told his bomb-groggy people today they faced "the hardest task imaginable" this year, and exhorted them to persevere so that the fight may "end in the biggest victory of the German reich in spite of all the devilish tricks of our opponents."

"From this fight can emerge only one victor and this will be either Germany or Russia," he warned in a speech broadcast by the Berlin radio. "German victory means preservation of Europe and a soviet victory Europe's annihilation."

Hitler's address, made 24 hours after the allies' greatest daylight aerial assault upon Germany, was a somewhat subdued oration marking the 11th anniversary of his rule.

"Ghost Voice" Interrupts.

He scarcely mentioned the military situation, and devoted almost all attention to his old thesis that Germany stood as Europe's only bulwark against the "bolshevik colossus." He uttered his usual imprecations against "International Jewry."

The German news agency DNB said the speech was relayed from Hitler's headquarters "for the first time." Trained monitors here who have heard Hitler's voice frequently said it was calm and firm.

One of the German shortwave stations which relayed the address was interrupted constantly by unintelligible shouted remarks from a "ghost" voice.

Text of Address.

Following is the text of Hitler's speech as broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press:

"In the fifth year of the greatest war the causes and meaning as well as the purpose of this world fight can no longer be unclear to any one.

"The time is past when it still could appear as if this war had been started by Great Britain as was done by her in the past to render the continent helpless for the maintenance of the balance of power in favor of the British empire. Those who since 1936 in London systematically incited to war have turned from aggressors to defenders of the Kremlin. The spectres which they thought making use of, according to British custom, have now got out of their control.

"No matter how this war will conclude, Great Britain has ceased to play a role on the continent, definitely. The question no longer is of maintaining or restoring in this war the former balance of power, but who at the conclusion of this war has hegemony in Europe, either the European family of nations represented by the strongest state or the bolshevik colossus.

"Meant for Simpletons."

"The first can only happen if Germany wins this war, which is not a struggle for Germany itself but for the whole of Europe. The second will happen if soviet Russia were to be victorious.

"Remarks spread by some British newspapers that after the eventual defeat of Germany Russia has no cause for advancing any farther in Europe and would then be content with the education—that is, the extermination—of the German people is meant by Jewish arrogance for European simpletons, just as the other one that before this war is over England as a matter of course would take the lead in a new struggle against soviet Russia.

"To this must be said that the first victor in this struggle of nations will not have his aims prescribed by British newspaper scribblers and second, in case of a bolshevist victory, western Europe would hardly align under British leadership to continue the struggle against the European-Asiatic colossus of the soviet union which then would dominate Europe—all the more since the military chances of such a fight could be assumed to be favorable only by a complete blockhead.

"Moreover, every European knows that in such an event a small group only, like the empire troops from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, etc., would have the honor of remaining over in western Europe, perhaps temporarily, to

5 Jap Islands Blasted from Sea and Air

PEARL HARBOR, Jan. 30 (AP).—Japan's invasion-jittery Central Pacific Marshall Islands received a heavy bombing and shelling today from perhaps the greatest naval force ever assembled.

A daring task force, presumably including carriers, battleships, cruisers, and destroyers, swept within 10 to 20 miles of these strategic islands which the Nipponese have zealously guarded and poured hundreds of tons of explosives on Kwajalein and Roi Islands and Maloelap and Wotje atolls.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, made the announcement in a bulletin.

Like Gilberts Attack.

This concentrated downpour of steel and flame was the same taste of war which similar navy forces gave the Japanese preceding the capture of the Gilberts Nov. 20.

Other carriers simultaneously extended the navy's newest central Pacific operation to heavy bombardment of Eniwetok, northernmost of the Marshall atolls, to destroy or pin down air strength which might have troubled other aerial and surface units.

Adm. Nimitz possibly threw the greatest naval force in history into this assault on territory mandated to Japan after the World war.

Like yesterday, when Nimitz reported that carrier attacks were made on Kwajalein, Taroa, and Wotje, no details were available, as radio silence was enforced for security.

Second Visit by Ships.

This bombardment is only the second time in six years that any allied ship has been within gun range of the Marshalls. After breaking from the league of nations in 1935, the Japanese in 1938 barred all foreign shipping. To protests that they were building up defenses, Tokio shouted denials, but secrecy never was lifted.

The fact that warships were able to go in so closely was seen as a tribute to the effectiveness of the 7th A. A. F.'s 10 weeks pounding of the Marshalls and yesterday's carrier raid in rendering Japanese air fields virtually useless.

Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale, commander of the 7th A. A. F., recently said one Marshalls field was 80 per cent neutralized, and others left only 20 to 60 per cent effective.

Drop 47 Tons.

Army Liberators dropped more than 47 tons of bombs into Japanese strong points Friday night, preceding the carrier strike. More than 27 tons hit Wotje, 17 tons struck Roi and Kwajalein Islands of Kwajalein atoll, and three tons struck Jaluit.

A navy patrol plane bombed Taroa unopposed but a flight of navy search planes was intercepted by nearly a dozen Zeros Friday afternoon. At least two Zeros were downed and three damaged, with no United States losses.

More Mitchells bombed Taroa's airdrome and cantonment structures the same afternoon, damaging 11 Japanese planes on the ground and firing a small unidentified craft.

BIRD POISONER HUNTED; WARN PUBLIC OF SEED

New York, Jan. 30 [Special].—Police were on the hunt here today for a new kind of criminal—an individual who is believed to be visiting feed stores and sneaking quantities of powdered strychnine into open bins where seeds are sold to bird lovers.

The search was accelerated by 18 pigeon deaths reported today, bringing to 81 the number of pigeons killed within the last few days by poison. Several sparrows and other birds have died from the same cause. Officials of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said a quantity of poisoned bird seed had been found in a lower west side—market and that the dealer, exonerated of knowledge of the poison, had been warned to keep his wares in closed bags.

A warning to all purchasers of bird seed to wash their hands after handling seeds was issued by the SPCA.

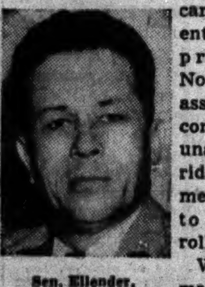
BARE SCHEME TO PAY SUBSIDY DESPITE VOTE

Food Support Until Fall Predicted.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—The administration is preparing to carry on its present food subsidy program until November on the assumption that congress will be unable to override a veto of a measure designed to stop price rollbacks.



Sen. Ellender.

With a stalemate in sight on the subsidy question, Sen. Ellender, [D., La.], predicted today that the senate and house will get together on a measure forbidding the rollback, that President Roosevelt will veto it, and that the veto will be sustained.

Beyond that, Ellender said he expects congress will agree to continue "indefinitely" the life of the Commodity Credit corporation and that the administration will continue to draw on funds of that agency and the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make payments until late next fall.

Sets 1½ Billion Figure.

Ellender has been one of the leaders in the administration's fight to obtain congressional authorization for subsidies. The house already has voted to ban them.

"The CCC and the RFC have enough funds available to meet the cost of subsidies which probably will not run more than 1½ billion dollars between now and fall," he said.

He said information he had received leads him to believe the opponents eventually will acquiesce in the payment of subsidies by this method, so long as the administration has to assume the full responsibility for a program congress has not definitely authorized.

While Sen. Aiken [R., Vt.], an opponent of the rollback, disclaimed any knowledge of an agreement, he said Ellender's estimate of the situation appears logical.

"We who are opposed to subsidies have a clear majority in congress, but it doesn't look as if we can get two-thirds," he said. "That has all the earmarks of a deadlock that can't be broken.

Must Clean Own Fish.

"If we can't override a veto to prevent rollbacks, then I have no doubt the administration will continue to pay them. It certainly won't get any affirmative authority from congress for that action, tho, and it will have to bear the full responsibility."

Aiken maintained that price rollback subsidies are unpopular—"except with the fourth term organization."

The subsidy question probably will come before the senate later in the week in consideration of a bill by Sen. Bankhead [D., Ala.] to continue the life of the CCC, which otherwise would expire Feb. 17.

Unlike the house approved bill which would ban all subsidy payments, the Bankhead measure would outlaw rollbacks but would permit support-price payments on more than a score of minor crops.

Million American Lives Held Possible War Toll

Carlisle, Pa., Jan. 30 (AP).—Douglas Southall Freeman, military historian and editor of the Richmond [Va.] News-Leader, said at a Dickinson college convocation today that the war may cost 1 million American lives.

Officer Under Fire for War Strike Speech

Cleveland, O., Jan. 30 [Special].—An army officer who denounced war plant strikes in a Pearl Harbor anniversary speech here last Dec. 7 is under investigation by the adjutant general's office in Washington, D. C., because of his remarks, it was learned here today. The officer is Maj. Ralph H. Coburn of the Cleveland ordnance district.

First announcement of the investigation came from Mayor Frank Lausche, who appeared on the same program with Maj. Coburn. The mayor said he had been approached by Lt. N. J. Saltzmann, who told him he had been sent from Columbus to inquire into the matter and questioned him about what Coburn had said in the speech.

"I told Saltzmann that I agreed with what the major said then and I still do," Mayor Lausche said.

Labor Protest Suggested.

Altho reluctant to discuss the investigation, Coburn confirmed that an inquiry is under way and said that Saltzmann "intimated to me that some labor leaders took exception to my speech and went to Washington."

Maj. Coburn was quoted at the time as saying in his speech, which was delivered at the Cleveland Jewish center, that strikes in war industries were sabotaging American soldiers abroad.

"I could do some fighting myself in this war, and it wouldn't be against the Nazis and Japs, either," he was reported to have said. "I think you know who I mean. All I've heard all day long is strike, strike, strike, and every one has been in critical war lines. These strikes are no atonement for the mistake of Pearl Harbor."

Predicts "Plenty of Suffering."

Coburn also said in the speech that "we'll suffer plenty before this thing is over," and asserted that "we say we want to get this thing over with, yet we fail to keep the war goods moving to the battle fronts."

The major, who won the croix de guerre in the World war, explained today that "I was just filled up on strikes and I went off the deep end." He added, "This could be serious. It might result in a court martial."

Both Richard Reisinger, president of the Cleveland Industrial Union council [CIO], and William Finnegan, president of the Cleveland Federation of Labor [AFL], denied knowledge of the investigation and said their organizations had not complained about the speech.

SIX SAILORS IN PACIFIC BEG CHICAGO: WRITE TO OUR LONELY PAL

The naval tradition that shipmates stick together was borne out in a letter received yesterday by THE TRIBUNE from six sailors aboard a ship somewhere in the Pacific.

"No Letter Today may be a popular song, but to many far away from their homes it is tragic," the letter read. "Out here, we live on and for our letters—they are our only contact with the world we love.

"We are thinking of a certain fellow aboard our ship who gets no letters. Each day he waits patiently, but none comes. We are even ashamed to read our letters in front of him, altho he tries to hide the embarrassment he naturally feels."

The writers of the letter reported that the sailor is 22 years old and has been an orphan since the age of five.

"He is from Chicago, single, and worked most of his life in or around Chicago," the letter continued. "For this reason we lay this problem on the Chicagoans' shoulders. We are asking you to write to him."

The letter, signed by the initials of six of "his pals," said the name of the lonesome sailor is Earl A. Grover Jr., seaman first class. His address is U. S. S. L. C. I. [c] 433, c-o Fleet Postoffice, San Francisco, Cal.

Drake Victim's $1,000 Bills Puzzle Police

Police attention in their investigation of the murder Jan. 19 of Mrs. Adele Born Williams in the Drake hotel veered back yesterday to the fortune in cash and negotiable securities discovered in safety deposit boxes held by the slaying victim.

Investigators, impressed with the oddity of a woman, regardless of how wealthy, harboring $100,000 in crisp, new, $1,000 bills tucked away in a safety deposit box, said that a clew to the murder might be hidden among them.

Two Questions Are Raised.

Uppermost in the minds of investigators were the two questions:

1. Where did the bills come from?
2. Why were they held in their present form?

It is not customary for persons of wealth to keep large sums in idleness, Asst. State's Atty. Joseph A. Pope, who is heading the investigation, pointed out.

The unexplained fortune in currency, together with negotiable securities, and jewelry, was found in a box in the Northern Trust company. Police also learned that Mrs. Williams maintained a large checking account in a local bank. The entire estate has been estimated at more than $500,000.

Question Hotel Employes.

Routine questioning of more than 20 employes of the hotel continued yesterday, with what police termed doubtful results.

Identity of the middle aged woman, clad in the black Persian lamb coat, who fired the fatal revolver shot, remained a mystery. Equally mysterious was the motive for the crime.

In the faint hope that a manuscript written by Mrs. Williams about diplomatic intrigue and life in Tokio might betray an inadvertent clew, the woman's husband, Frank Starr Williams, former state department attache at the Japanese capital, was requested to turn the unpublished book over to investigators. Williams, who left yesterday for Washington, D. C., said he would bring the manuscript back with him.

ANGRY BATAAN CLAN DEMANDS: HELP M'ARTHUR!

A demand that men and materials be supplied Gen. MacArthur immediately was made yesterday at an indignation meeting of the American Bataan clan in Maywood.

Francisco Alayu.

The indignation of the clan, inspired by accounts of Jap brutality toward captured heroes of Corregidor and Bataan, was tempered with sorrow.

For virtually every member of the clan has a loved one—brother, son, husband, or sweetheart—somewhere in that nest of Jap bestiality, either dead, missing in action, or a prisoner.

Parents Tell of Loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jannisch, 333 Park avenue, River Forest, were among the 150 persons who attended the meeting, held to mark the second anniversary of the organization. Sadly they explained that their son, Corp. Fred Jannisch, had died last June in a Jap prison camp.

"It is too late for anything to help our boy," Mrs. Jannisch said simply, "but we want to do all in our power to speed help to Gen. MacArthur so that our boy's fate can be spared the sons of other parents."

Mrs. Samuel Martinek of Route 1, Norwood Park, whose son, Corp. Samuel R. Martinek, is a prisoner of the German army, was bitter at government neglect of Gen. MacArthur.

Mrs. August Mensching, 1384 Oakwood street, Des Plaines, whose son, Corp. Wilfred H. Mensching, is a prisoner somewhere in the Philippines, observed sorrowfully that "too many people have forgotten that there was a Bataan."

Filipino Tells Nephew's Escape.

But the members of the American Bataan clan haven't forgotten. . . .

They were unanimous in their praise of the great story of Lt. Col. William Edwin Dyess, now being published serially in THE TRIBUNE, and the picture it unfolds of the shocking treatment received by the handful of gallant defenders at the hands of the Japanese army in the Philippines.

Speaker at the meeting was Francisco P. Alayu, 5704 Maryland avenue, a Filipino and uncle of Jose Tugab, former attache at MacArthur's divisional headquarters, originally scheduled to address the gathering. His appearance was canceled because of his illness.

A handsome honor roll, fashioned of gleaming walnut and containing the names of the 149 men who are dead, missing, or prisoners in the Philippines, was dedicated at the meeting by Albert C. McArthur, president of the clan.

SESSIONS PAINTING OF JAPANESE PLANE CRASH REPRODUCED

On the back page of today's TRIBUNE is a reproduction of a dramatic painting by James M. Sessions, a Chicago artist. This picture, bearing the title, "Yanks Make a Kill," illustrates today's instalment of the thrilling story now appearing in THE TRIBUNE of the late Lt. Col. W. E. Dyess' experiences in the fighting in the Philippines, his capture, and his subsequent escape from a Japanese prison camp.

The incident pictured is the crashing of a Japanese bomber at Lubao air field in the Philippines after having been shot down by the fire of American anti-aircraft guns.

Instalments of the Dyess story which will appear in the next three days will be illustrated in back page color features by other well known Chicago artists.

Enemy Is Trapped by Sea Force at Agoloma Bay.

(The late Lt. Col. Dyess yesterday told of the opening days of the Japanese invasion of the Philippines. Today he tells of the battle of Agoloma bay. Subsequent articles will tell of the campaign on Bataan and then the terrible days in Japanese prison camps. Dyess was killed in a plane accident in California last Dec. 22.)

Christmas dinner of 1941 was our last feast for many a day. The evacuation of Manila was under way and it was possible to send into the city for anything we wanted. We had roast turkey, canned cranberry sauce, and plum pudding, and plenty of vegetables and coffee. And there were a few drops of holiday cheer.

But the holiday began and ended with that dinner. The situation grew in gravity with each moment. Gen. MacArthur had quit his Manila headquarters on Christmas eve, leaving orders that declared the Philippine capital an open city on Christmas day. Gen. MacArthur now was in the field, fighting to stem the enemy tide that already was sweeping northward toward our new air base at Lubao, about 50 air miles northwest of Manila.

Job to Camouflage Field.

Our biggest job was to camouflage the field. It lay along the road over which an endless stream of trucks, artillery, and service units was retiring toward Bataan. Jap dive bombers and fighter planes blasted the highway all day long. We were in constant danger of being discovered.

Working along with Filipinos, we divided the 3,500 foot runway into halves. The first half we covered with windrows of dead cane, which looked from the air as tho it had been cut and left to lie. The other section was left bare, like a newly planted field. Before a takeoff we scanned the skies for Japs, then the Filipinos removed the cane. After we had gone, they replaced it and swept the bare section clear of landing wheel tracks.

Revetments for the planes were dug into the ground at the edge of a cane field. When the planes were in, they were covered by nets of chicken wire into which were stuck stalks of fresh, green cane. In front of each plane was a row of bamboo tubes into which we thrust stalks of green cane. From the air the illusion was perfect.

First Prying Jap Downed.

Our greatest danger came during the construction period. The only Jap plane that ever flew directly over the field during that phase also came down onto it in flame. Our vigilant anti-aircraft battery across the road caught the Jap, a two engined bomber, just after he had blasted a bridge a few miles away. He struck and exploded in the cane patch, in the midst of our planes, without damaging one of them. The explosion scattered maps, charts, and diaries about.

I sent the Filipinos out to gather these up. I told them to bring everything they might find, everything. This was a little too literal. One of them brought me the jaw bone and teeth of a Jap flyer.

We constantly took time out from our camouflage work to fly reconnaissance and other missions. On the day after Christmas I got my first Jap plane officially. It was a two place dive bomber. Capt. Charles [Bud] Sprague and I both tackled it. The rear gunner put three holes in my plane before I riddled him and got into position for the machine gun burst that set him afire.

Collects 27 Holes in Wing.

On Dec. 28 as I was returning from reconnaissance over Lingayen bay, a Jap fighter shot out one of my guns and put 27 holes in my right wing before I shot off the top of his motor and saw him go down burning. Several of the boys got their first Jap victories during this period.

Ready for Philippines

Two days later I had some real fun. Flying at 7,000 feet several miles east of Lingayen bay, I spotted a truck convoy crawling along a hilly road near Baguio. With me, in another P-40, was a lieutenant whose name I can't use because he now is a prisoner of war.

We dropped a little lower to have a good look at the trucks. Since the Japs also used American made trucks their convoys sometimes were hard to identify, but at 5,000 feet we were able to make out a red bull's eye atop one of the trucks. That was all we needed to know.

The Japs saw us, stopped the trucks, and scattered into the ditches. We dived, each of us opening up with six .50 caliber machine guns. We could see great chunks of truck bodies, motors, and cargo flying in all directions. We had two passes at the seven machines and left three of them enveloped in flames and the others knocked to pieces.

Field Is Front Line Territory.

On New Year's day, 1942, in midmorning we finished work on our air field. By midafternoon the onrushing Japanese advance had made Lubao field front line territory. By evening we had received orders to abandon it. American infantry units, truck trains, and artillery were streaming past us on the road, bound for Bataan province where Gen. MacArthur planned to make a last stand.

The planes were divided between the 17th and 34th pursuit squadrons, which were sent to Pilar and Orani fields, in Bataan province, 20 and 10 miles southwest of Lubao, respectively. Each squadron was alloted nine P-40s—all we had left. The remainder of the squadrons, including pilots, technicians, and ground crews, were ordered deeper into Bataan to train as a mobile infantry unit.

The two flying groups had hardly got settled at their new fields, however, when they were ordered to move again. Nine planes were sent to Del Monte field, on the southern island of Mindanao, and the other nine were ordered to Bataan field, near Cabcaben, at the southeastern tip of the peninsula.

Bataan Air Defense: 9 Planes.

Two of the former came to grief, a lad named Wilcox was killed when his plane hit a mountainside and another, Joseph Cole, cracked up when he ran out of gasoline. But the point is that the air defense of Bataan began with nine planes!

Those of us who trained as infantry were willing, but awkward. For nearly two weeks before we saw real action we charged up and down mountains and beat the bush for Japs. We were bivouacked in a canyon in southern Bataan and had all sorts of terrain nearby for practice.

Our equipment looked as tho it might have been picked up at an ordnance rummage sale. Our weapons included some navy Marlin machine guns; air corps .50 caliber machine guns which we took from old P-40s and equipped with homemade mounts; two Browning water cooled machine guns; six Lewis aircraft .30 caliber machine guns, which we carried over the shoulder by a leather loop, holding the barrel steady with an asbestos glove, and a few Browning automatic rifles.

Describes Weapons.

There were some hand grenades and four Bren gun carriers. There were only three bayonets, but this was all right because only three of our 220 air force men knew anything about using them. We were renamed the air force battalion of the 71st division.

Our menu soon became as varied and skimpy as our armament. We had been well fixed for food on our arrival in Bataan, but in less than two weeks the quartermaster ordered all surplus supplies turned in. From then on it was nip and tuck.

At first we had plenty of white rice. This gave way to red [unpolished] rice which was succeeded by musty red rice. There also were some cashew nuts. There was almost no beef, tho for a time we had horse and mule meat, supplemented by carabao [water buffalo] roasts. Hunting parties occasionally brought in deer or wild pigs.

Soon we were shooting everything edible. Before the end, there was hardly a monkey left alive in the area. We even ate lizards, tho these fleet reptiles were hard to bag. In a very short time, however, we were to go after game even harder to bag.

Awakened at Midnight.

It was midnight of Jan. 17 that we were awakened in our blacked out camp and hurried into waiting trucks. A seven mile ride took us to the Agoloma bay region, where the Japs had effected a landing just after dark. They now were in the jungle and, as we later learned, were preparing to advance until dawn.

Our green troops made so much noise with their yelling, shooting, and floundering, however, that the Japs thought they were facing a major force and dug in at once. We were joined by some Philippine army and constabulary units and a scattering of men from the 803d Engineers, U. S. A.

This was the start of a seven days' siege. We had no entrenching tools and were forced to lie on top of the ground or fire from behind trees. Casualties ran high. Our food during the week to come was chiefly salmon gravy on sour dough bread. Our water was hauled in fuel drums and reeked of gasoline.

Japs Set Off Firecrackers.

We had been told the Jap party numbered about 30, but the ferocity of their defense soon showed us there were hundreds of them. All night long the jungle crackled with rifle fire, punctuated by the bomb-like blasts of mortar shells. There was much irregular machine gun fire—or so it seemed. We later learned the little cuties were setting off firecracker strings to simulate machine guns.

To our cost we became acquainted with their strategy of playing dead until an American column had crept past them. Then the supposed corpses would rise up and shoot the Americans in the back. We countered this by never passing a "dead" Jap without shooting him to make sure he was hors de combat. But before those seven sleepless days and nights had ended we were so weary, dirty, and starved we didn't care whether we were shot or not.

On the night the siege started we were about a quarter of a mile from the cliffs overlooking Agoloma bay. In a week we occupied 150 yards of this area on a line about 500 yards long.

Relieved by Philippine Scouts.

Then we handed the job over to a large force of Philippine Scouts, who were well equipped with Garand rifles. We left them our automatic equipment and went back for a six day rest, much of which we spent fighting a forest fire set by Jap incendiary bombs.

On our return we found that the Scouts had occupied 50 yards more of the high jungle above the bay—at terrible cost to themselves. Their casualties had run about 50 per cent. The sight and stench of death were everywhere. The jungle, droning with insects, was almost unbearably hot.

We reënforced the scouts and shortened the line to 400 yards, penning up the Japs between us and the cliffs, which were 50 to 60 feet high. By the fifth day after our return our line was only about 300 yards and we were supported by four tanks under Lt. John Hay. The jungle now had been pretty well shot away, so that there was clearance for their passage.

We started our advance, directing the tanks' fire with walkie-talkies [portable radio set]. The Japs now were crowded up to the very brink. There were hundreds of them, partially screened by the thick growth that extended to the edge. At 50 yards we could see them plainly. Beyond and below them was the blue water of the South China sea.

Suddenly, above the noise of the gunfire, we could hear shrieks and high pitched yelling. Scores of Japs were tearing off their uniforms and leaping off the cliffs. Others were scrambling over the edge and shinnying down to fortifications prepared along the rock ledges. In a few minutes all surviving Japs had taken refuge below us and out of our sight.

We had a good view of the narrow beach, which was littered with bodies. Other Japs were running wildly up and down and plunging into the surf. We raked the beach and surf with machine gun fire, annihilating all who moved. Presently the waves were rolling in stained with blood and dotted with dead Japs.

Peppers the Crowded Beach.

I'll never forget the little Filipino who had set up an air cooled machine gun at the brink and was peppering the crowded beach far below. At each burst he shrieked with laughter, beat his helmet against the ground, lay back to whoop with glee, then sat up to get in another burst.

We spent the rest of that day and the next trying to dislodge the Japs from the ledges and galleries of the cliffs. We lowered boxes of dynamite with ropes and detonated them, but with little effect. Then we tried grenades and mines, also lowered by ropes and also ineffective. It would have been suicide to have stormed them from the beach because they were well armed.

It was not until the eighth day, assisted by the navy, that we wiped them out. The navy supplied two whale boats and two 35-foot longboats that had been plated with armor and armed with captured 37 mm. Jap cannon, twin .30 caliber machineguns and one .50 caliber gun each.

Ten men of our squadron were in each of the whaleboats. I went with one of the homemade gunboats to direct the fire. Previously we had lowered sheets over the face of the cliff to mark the Jap positions.

Blast Away Thru Bombing.

We stood off the beach and had shelled them for about 10 minutes when a sailor hurried up to the commander [now a war prisoner] and called his attention to a flight of Jap dive bombers approaching from the east.

"To hell with the airplanes, sailor," the commander snapped. To me he said: "Where do you want the next shot, captain?"

Our little fleet raced for the beach with the Jap planes immediately above us, loosing a rain of 100 pound fragmentation bombs. They were bursting all about us, sending up geysers of water. Thru it all the navy gunners continued to blast away. One of the whaleboats was hit, then one of the gunboats. In another minute the second whaleboat was gone.

Almost at the beach a near hit demolished our gunboat. There were casualties among our volunteers and the navy personnel as well. The intrepid commander was wounded critically.

But our shelling had been so deadly it was an easy matter for our survivors to storm the remaining Japs and mop them up. We finished this task at noon, taking only one prisoner. He fled over the top of the cliff and into the arms of our men waiting there.

600 Jap Bodies in Jungle.

We counted more than 600 Jap bodies in the jungle, in the ledges, and on the beach. Many others were carried away by the sea. And we had been sent after only 30!

Soon afterward, the late Brig. Gen. Harold H. George, chief air officer in the Philippines, paid us a visit and we presented him with a captured Japanese saber. With it was a note which read:

"We, the members of the 21st pursuit squadron, who have served as engineers, infantry, artillery, anti-parachute troops, anti-sniper troops, mechanized units, marines, and air corps—our first and only love—respectfully present as a token of our esteem this Japanese saber, taken in the battle of Agoloma bay."

And it developed that Gen. George had not merely dropped in to pass the time of day. He touched off a wild charivari of clanging tinware, shots, and Indian yells by letting it be known we soon would be back with our first love. The 21st pursuit was assigned to Bataan and Cabcaben fields. We would be in the air again.

MUST TAKE ALL ON WAY TO TOKIO, ADM. KING WARNS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—The Philippines and most of the islands seized by the Japanese in the early months of the war must be retaken on the road to Tokio, Adm. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet said tonight.

In a speech prepared for delivery over the Columbia Broadcasting system, King decried any opinions "that the war is almost won."

"We are faced with the task of dispossessing the enemy from those areas he so quickly gained," he said, "and which we need before our attack on his homeland can be accentuated. We have started this uphill march; we have already put the enemy on the defensive."

In urging greater purchases of war bonds, King declared that, as the allies move toward Tokio, the foe's lines of communication will be shortened and the thoroness of his preparations for defense will improve, thus increasing the task of Anglo-American forces.

JAP ATROCITIES NOT ALL TOLD, ATTLEE AVERS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Dominions Secretary Clement R. Attlee told the British public today that people at large had heard "only a few" accounts of atrocities committed by the Japanese. Attlee's remarks took on added significance in view of the fact that British newspapers have been printing lengthy dispatches about Japanese outrages.

Attlee was addressing a gathering at Sunderland, where he spoke about Japanese atrocities and post-war reconstruction. Referring to the Japanese, he said:

"The world will not be safe until we have subdued and rendered powerless these cruel barbarians who conceal under their cloak of western civilization the foulest and most depraved instincts of cruelty."

20 Pound Bomb Found in Marine Depot Doorway

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 30 (AP).—A 14 inch, 20 pound bomb, which police said was filled with blasting powder of "great potency," was found propped in the doorway of a warehouse in the marine corps quartermaster depot today by a sentry. There was no fuse or detonator attached, but navy and army intelligence officers, the federal bureau of investigation and the police began an investigation.

ATROCITY NEWS ZOOMS OUTPUT OF PLANE PARTS

But Bendix Needs Help to Supply Navy.

A speedy new navy airplane carrier, one of the fleet that some day will launch its angry death spitting stingers toward Tokio to avenge the atrocities committed on captured American fighters in the name of the emperor, is almost ready to go to sea in a big ship fitting yard.

Almost!

It needs a few more planes, those deadly Grummans that can fight and bomb and climb and outmaneuver a Zero—planes for our revenge fleet.

The planes are ready—almost. They lack engines. The engines are ready, too—almost, that is. They lack carburetors, lungs to make them breathe and deliver their full horse power at 30,000 feet plus, up there on a Zero's tail.

Carburetors Ready—Almost.

The carburetors are ready—almost. Three thousand workers in Chicago are getting them ready as fast as they can. Aircraft carburetors are complicated things. Each requires hundreds of worker hours before it is ready to take its hundred final inspection tests. Thousands of individual operations have been performed on it. It must be perfect.

At the Bendix Aviation corporation's Illinois division plant in Chicago those 2,400 women and 600 men got pretty angry when they read about how the Japs had tortured to death thousands of American prisoners. They were just mad enough to finish and test and ship more carburetors than they ever had in a single day before.

The number is a secret, of course, but it was enough to put several of those Grummans aboard that carrier, which soon will be enemy bound. But another will take its place in the fitting yards, because lots of carriers are being launched.

Bendix Needs More Women.

The truth is that they are being launched faster than they can be equipped with planes. There are plenty of Grummans, and plenty of engines, but there aren't enough carburetors. And there won't be enough, E. A. Michaelsen, personnel director of the Bendix plant, said, until more people, especially women, get into the Bendix plant and start pitching on the production line.

As Michaelsen was telling a Tribune reporter of the plant's dire need of workers, a delegation of girls from the inspection division came up to ask that more war front pictures be shown during the lunch hour.

"We want to see some of those army pictures taken in battle," their spokesman said. "They're pretty gruesome, but we can take it. Particularly, we like those showing enemy planes being shot down—Jap planes. We're not bloodthirsty, but those stories of how the Japs treat our men are waking us up.

Ire Speeds Up Work.

"We want to help give our men enough planes to knock down 100 Jap planes for every one we lose. They deserve a 100 to 1 edge over persons who will do what our enemies are doing. Please show us all the pictures you can, because the angrier we get the more work we can do."

Michaelsen said that 80 per cent of the plant's women employes have from one to seven members of their immediate families in the army or navy.

"That's why a lot of them are here," he said. "Many have been with us since we opened this plant a year ago. Several hold foremen's and other supervisory jobs, because we fill all of these positions from the ranks. They coöperate in training new workers.

All Are Technicians.

"All our employes are aircraft technicians, and they are classified and paid on that basis. Some do precision fitting to finer tolerances than in the best watches.

"They know they really are sending those carriers to sea. They are a little discouraged now and then because we haven't given them more people to train and work with. We could put 300 more women to work tomorrow morning, and their efforts would help to put more planes in the air within a few weeks."

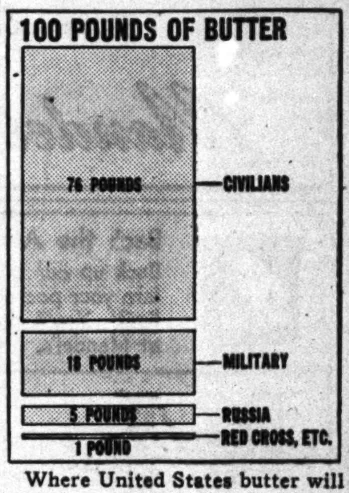
WFA FORECASTS LEANER BUTTER RATIONS IN 1944

Russia Will Receive 100 Million Pounds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—Slightly more than a pound of butter a month will be available for each civilian under tentative allocations of the prospective 1944 butter supply announced today by the war food administration. This is about one-third of a pound less than each civilian got in 1943.

The monthly allocation includes what civilians will eat in hotels, restaurants, other public eating places, hospitals, and institutions, the WFA said.



Where United States butter will go this year.

The announcement said that approximately 100 million pounds of butter will be sent to Russia under lend-lease.

Called Only Beneficiary.

"Russia is the only one of our allies to whom we send butter under lend-lease," the WFA announcement said. "Great Britain is able to import her requirements from other countries. Our armed forces receive about 20 million pounds a year from Australia and New Zealand under reverse lend-lease."

The announcement said "almost all" the butter for Russia will go to front line troops and military hospitals.

The WFA said it had allocated 1944 butter supplies as follows:

Civilians—76 out of every 100 pounds.

Military—18 of every 100 pounds.

Russia—5 of every 100 pounds.

Red Cross, etc.—1 of every 100 pounds.

The last category includes butter that will go to American territories, friendly nations other than military allies, and a quantity that will be set aside in a reserve to meet civilian or military emergency requirements.

Carry-Over 81 Million Lbs.

The WFA said 2 billion 46 million pounds is expected to be available during the year. This includes 81 million pounds carried over from 1943 and an estimated 1944 production of 1 billion 965 million pounds.

The agency noted that butter production decreased more than seasonally in the last half of 1943, hitting a low point in November. It attributed the decrease to an excessive seasonal drop in milk production and to diversion to other uses of "thousands of pounds" of milk which normally went into butter.

The WFA said it had taken steps to halt this diversion, including stabilization of milk consumption in many large cities at June levels and the establishment of restrictions on production of cottage cheese, chocolate milk, and other dairy products.

The WFA said butter production may be larger than estimated if diversion to other purposes can be reduced.

SHOTGUN ARMED BOYS HOLD FIVE NAZI PRISONERS

Indianola, Neb., Jan. 30 (AP).—"Country boys armed with shotguns" held five escaped German prisoners of war in a hen house today until military authorities arrived, Lt. Col. Frederick E. Whitten, commanding officer of the war prison camp here, said tonight.

The five had escaped last night from a "side camp" and fled about eight miles thru six inches of snow before taking refuge in the hen house, Col. Whitten said.

The farm boys, not immediately identified, recognized their uniforms and held them at gun point until officers arrived to return the shivering prisoners, he added.

Head of Vichy's Police System Reported Shot

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP).—Joseph Darnand, head of Vichy's police system, was wounded in one arm by a bullet today as he was walking from his home, a Tass [Russian] dispatch from Geneva said tonight. The assailant escaped. The chief of Darnand's bodyguard was reported arrested.

CRUEL SLAVERY AT PRISON CAMP IN PHILIPPINES

[Raymond P. Cronin, Associated Press bureau chief in Manila, was interned at Santo Tomas camp for civilians there from January, 1941, until repatriated last September. Serving on the camp's self-government committee, he was able to maintain contacts with the outside.]

BY RAYMOND P. CRONIN.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 30 (AP).—A life of cruel slavery was the fate of most of the 6,500 American soldiers held in Japanese military prison camp No. 1 near Cabanatuan when I left the Philippines as a repatriate late last September.

Raymond P. Cronin.

The same cruelties dominated the lives of about 400 other Americans held in a schoolhouse at Pasay, suburb of Manila, after they had slaved all day at Nichols air field and on the roads in that area.

Eyewitnesses of the Bataan surrender, the march of death, and events in the Cabanatuan camp told me their stories while I was in the civilian prison camp at Santo Tomas, Manila.

Wounded Got Little Care.

At the outset, our soldiers were herded behind barbed wire and left in open fields at camp No. 1 to face the tropical sun and rain. The wounded and sick who were dragged along from Bataan were given little care.

The death list at Cabanatuan alone totaled around 4,000 at the time I left the Philippines.

Most of these fatalities were due to lack of surgical and medical treatment of any kind. Death laid heavy hand on the untreated wounded.

Scores of others died of malaria or dysentery, as sanitary facilities were nil and drinking water was at a premium.

No Beds for Year.

None of the prisoners had the vitally needed mosquito net. Beds were unheard of for more than a year.

The soldiers worked on near-by roads under Jap guards who delighted in swinging clubs on those who faltered.

In two cases, attempted escapes by men willing to take their chances in the near-by wild Corderillo mountains with the Ilongot and Abalao head-hunters in preference to the Japs, the offenders were brought to the center of the camp and a few were beheaded while the others were shot.

Clubbings with the limbs of trees, heavy bamboo sticks, or 2x4s were the daily fare of prisoners who, undernourished, could not do pick and shovel duty for as long as 12 hours a day.

Quinine for Only Few.

In about May of 1943 the Japs finally produced some dilapidated cots and nets for the wooden barracks which were erected by the prisoners. They also provided some quinine, but the quantity was trivial. Almost 1,500 men needed such medicine instead of the few who received it.

The prisoners wore only ragged shorts. They had no shoes, no hats, no shirts, as they labored over the rough ground under burning tropical sun or cold deluges of rain.

I received from a trustworthy source a story which might be called "Life in Cabanatuan Camp." It was in short, snappy sentences:

Up at 5:45 a. m. Exercise and roll call. Breakfast at 6. Rice mush only.

Work on the roads or on the vegetable farm from 6:30 to noon without shoes, hats, or shirts.

Lunch, rice again, or corn, in the form of soup. Back to work at 12:45 p. m.

All Books Confiscated.

Roll call at 6:30 p. m. Dinner, rice covered with a vegetable stew. Recreation, games and other small pleasures, until 9 p. m. Lights out.

One must be real sick and in the hospital to escape work.

The Japs confiscated the few books and magazines available. Only reading material, junky Nippon-go propaganda.

Favorite sport of Japs—broken arms. They delight in catching one of the American prisoners in some infraction of the rules, no matter how trivial. Two soldiers grab the offender while another breaks his arm. Half a dozen broken arm cases in the hospital right now [during late July, 1943].

The same treatment was accorded prisoners at Pasay. Their condition was so pitiful as they marched thru the streets that Filipino men and women openly wept. Yet these boys, more than half starved and with nothing to wear except G-strings, went thru the streets time and again singing "God Bless America." Filipinos who tried to throw them packs of cigarets or small bits of food were beaten by Jap guards.

One Pasay prisoner working at Nichols field, unable to carry on, dropped his pick and sat down on the ground. A Jap soldier slugged him with a rifle butt. Comrades carried him in that evening and asked for a doctor. The Japs refused. He died that night.

YANKEES BRIDGE FLOOD; DRIVE ON CASSINO'S WALL

Engineers Build Road in 48 Hour Battle.

BULLETIN.

WITH 5TH ARMY TROOPS SOUTH OF ROME, Jan. 31 (Monday) — (AP). — Italian refugees from Rome said today the Germans generally were withdrawing from the capital, leaving behind demolition troops to blow up specific buildings.

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Jan. 30 (AP).—American tanks and infantry, teamed closely in the Russian style, broke into the Gustav line's forward wall today. It was a fighting advance made possible by American engineers who spanned a German-made flood in the Rapido river bottom with a log bridge and corduroy road built under enemy shell fire.

The flanking thrust, climaxing 48 hours of battling, carried the Americans to one point north of Cassino and a little more than a mile from that stubborn bastion of the Nazi defenses. They took more than 100 Nazi prisoners.

The Germans had diverted the river across a supply road behind the Yanks and made the lowlands a morass, but Sherman tanks rumbled boldly and safely across the sturdy log road. Once on firm ground they tore thru German wire to pin the enemy in his machine gun nests as the American foot soldiers came up with guns and grenades.

Walk in Tread Tracks.

The soldiers walked close behind their tanks, stepping in the tread tracks to avoid the Nazi anti-personnel mines which the tank exploded noisily but harmlessly.

A field officer called the performance "one of the best coöperative jobs of the war."

Credit for spearing the initial breach in the Gustav line is given to tank troopers commanded by Lt. Col. Harry Sweeting, 1933 graduate of West Point, whose wife lives at 1211 North La Salle street, Chicago.

Somehow the Germans switched the Rapido river from its normal bed at a point three and a half miles north of Cassino, and sent its waters surging over the road along its eastern bank. United States forces had been using the road to move reënforcements and supplies.

French troops on the right flank of Americans north of Cassino recaptured three important heights above the road to Terelle, repulsed a German raid north of Mount Croce, and captured 100 more prisoners.

Throw Back Counter-Attack.

The British across the Garigliano river to the southwest seized another 100 prisoners, and advanced a mile north of Suio, winning a spur of Mount Ruffiano northeast of Castelforte, and high ground on Mount Turlito.

In the invasion area south of Rome, allied forces made some gains and threw back another Nazi counter-attack near Bordo Montello, seven miles southwest of Cisterna. The towns of Bordo Montello and Campo Morto, northeast of Anzio, and Cantoniera and Carroceto [Aprilia] north of Anzio, are firmly in allied hands. Six hundred Germans have been captured in the beachhead area since operations began on Jan. 22.

[A dispatch from the bridgehead area dated Jan. 28 said six allied infantry divisions—70,000 to 90,000 men—already had been put ashore and were being reënforced with armor and heavy artillery.]

Mass Strength in Rome Area.

The Nazis apparently are trying to contain the seaborne forces while massing strength for a major counter-offensive in the Rome sector.

[William Stoneman, representing the combined American press at the bridgehead, said the 5th army has lost its advantage following the surprise landing, and the enemy has had time to pour in troops, collect his wits and prepare for the defense of Rome and the roads leading up from the south. The Germans have land communications, while the allies must depend on vulnerable sea lanes, he said, indicating the possibility "of a pretty extensive stalemate. Tho we are within a short day's walk of Rome and can see its environs, nobody must be too shocked if we don't make the grade in a hurry."]

The navy announced that unloading was proceeding regularly on the beachheads. No shipping losses have been announced in these operations, but the German claims of sinking many ships, while branded as "grossly exaggerated," have not been denied in toto.

Down 36 Planes in Air Battle.

United States heavy and medium bombers pounded Nazi communications again yesterday without opposition, and there was a marked decrease in the planes the Germans have been throwing against the beachhead.

But it was learned the Germans are bringing in many bombers, mainly Junkers 88s from the Balkans and other points, for dusk and night blows at allied troops.

A special announcement at allied headquarters said heavy bombers of the 15th United States air force attacked four enemy air bases north of the Gulf of Venice today. Long range Thunderbolts engaged the enemy at altitudes from 500 to 20,000 feet. The P-47s destroyed 36 enemy aircraft for the loss of one. It was described as the greatest single air battle of the Italian campaign. This brought the total bag of German planes downed in Italy in the last four days to 126. The allies have lost 14 in four days.

Forts Bomb Rail Targets.

Flying Fortresses bombed railway targets at Bologna in northern Italy and at Rimini and Ancona, on the Adriatic coast, and Fabriano, southwest of Ancona yesterday.

United States Mitchells and Marauders pounded bridges north of Rome, with crews reporting heavy damage to the German supply network in that area. Mitchells also raided San Benedetto on the Adriatic.

Fifty-four enemy vehicles were destroyed ahead of the 5th army by Spitfires and Kittyhawks. Guidonia air field, west of Rome, was strafed, and R. A. F. Bostons attacked motor transport in the Rome area at night.

On the night of Jan. 28-29 the rail yards at Foligno and Verona were attacked by night bombers.

The Mediterranean allied air forces flew over 1,300 sorties yesterday.

GERMAN WAR REPORT

Sunday's German war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin said:

"On the south Italian front, in the sectors of Minturno and Castelforte and northwest of Santa Elia, the enemy, after heavy artillery preparation, again attacked on a wide front. In the heavy fighting Mount Juga was lost but was recaptured by our troops after bitter hand-to-hand fighting.

"At other front sectors the enemy was repelled with heavy casualties in bitter engagements.

"In the Nettuno bridgehead the enemy was also temporizing yesterday and attacked unsuccessfully in the strength of a battalion at one place only. Our own successful shock troops attacked and took prisoners.

"On Jan. 29 the German air force attacked enemy ships off Nettuno and sank one destroyer and two freighters totaling 14,000 tons. Four other freighters aggregating 28,000 tons and one landing vessel were damaged.

"Since Jan. 22 the German air force has thus sunk five destroyers and five freighters of 27,000 tons as well as seven landing boats of 14,000 tons in attacks on the enemy landing fleet. Three cruisers, six destroyers, 41 freighters of 201,000 tons as well as 19 landing boats were damaged. The destruction of part of these boats can be reckoned with."

ROME'S DEFENSE 'UP TO US,' DUCE TELLS HIS STAFF

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP). — Benito Mussolini, commenting on the allied landing at Nettuno south of Rome, told a group of his "Fascist-Republican" generals at headquarters today that "Rome is the life of our race, and it is now up to us." The speech, broadcast by Rome radio, reflected Mussolini's difficulties in trying to whip into shape an effective Fascist army.

"The consequence of my betrayal was the complete destruction of all Italian armed forces," he told the group, which included his minister of defense, Marshal Rodolfo Graziani. "We have started afresh but the reconstruction has been extremely difficult, and the new army must not be a copy of the old army."

Mussolini said the allied landing near Rome had boosted Italian defensive morale because of its threat to Rome, and "the problem that dominates all is the return to the fight, to pass from a passive to an active war."

ALLIES GAIN ON THREE FRONTS IN BURMA THEATER

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 30 (AP). —Allied forces slowly penetrating Japanese positions on three Burma fronts have made slight progress at two points and fought off enemy attacks at a third, a southeast Asia bulletin said today.

On the Arakan front of western Burma, British and Indian forces, inching thru strong enemy entrenchments in the Mayu peninsula, have occupied three hills against stiff opposition a mile northeast of Razabil. Advance patrol units were active.

The announcement said "a further slight advance against opposition" was registered by Chinese forces who are hacking across the Hukawng valley of North Burma to clear a way for the new Ledo road to China.

BEACH AT ANZIO 'LIKE SOUTH 80 BACK IN ILLINOIS'

BY KENNETH L. DIXON.

ON THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD IN ITALY, Jan. 28 [Delayed]—(AP).—Coming directly from the Cassino sector of the 5th army front, which hides its operation in the wild, rugged Apennines, to the level and slightly rolling plains which stretch a few miles inland from this beachhead is a terrific shock. You feel exposed and vulnerable as a rifle target.

For the doughboys who had to fight along every murderous foot of the Cassino front, the terrain here is one of the worst aspects of the entire battle.

Always on the Cassino front it was uphill, uphill, uphill, slogging thru mud and cold rains, sliding, slipping, falling, scrambling for footholds.

But it had one virtue — natural cover.

Country Seems Barren.

That is missing on this front. The country seems barren by comparison. You scurry from one pitifully shallow gully to the next, look longingly at every single clump of trees you pass, and take refuge in the tall canefields when nothing else is available.

Soldiers who would have scorned anything less than a steep hillside for protection just behind the old front, here are vying for priority in an irrigation ditch or drainage slough.

Back behind Cassino the soldiers parked their pup tents on the safe side of a ridge, dug their slit trenches in their spare time, often contenting themselves with shallow slits in the rocky hillsides.

Here they dig 'em fast. There's no such thing as spare time until there is a deep trench within one jump of their tents.

Familiar to Midwesterners.

If there was any question about their exposed position at first, enemy artillery and bombers long since have settled it. There is hardly a position on the whole beachhead which is not at least partially vulnerable.

Kids from the mountain country who got homesick in the middle of the Appenines are equaled here by doughboys from the middle west.

This rolling farmland looks painfully familiar to them, even tho the Germans are using farmhouses for pillboxes and machine gun nests. What little timberland they find also is reminiscent of the corn belt. I stood in a little woods of black walnut trees during an air raid this morning and thought how much it resembled the south 80 on the Illinois farm where I was born.

Wild Blackberry Bushes.

All around here are wild blackberry bushes, slightly withered from the winter but still sticky when I slipped and fell among them.

The same old fall and winter carpet of fallen leaves lay on the ground. The branches overhead were almost barren of leaves.

Pup tents were stretched between the small saplings in among the bigger trees. Except for them and the gun positions around and planes overhead and shells falling here and there and a few other things it would have been just like that south 80, where I used to go squirrel hunting in the winter time.

But the guns they hunt with here are bigger than the old 22 single shot, and the rolling hillside doesn't give a doughboy half the protection that a single tree trunk used to give a squirrel.

Report Allies Sink Axis Cruiser in Italian Port

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 30 (AP). — A 5,000 ton enemy cruiser has been sunk in Zara harbor, Italian port on the eastern side of the Adriatic, by fighter-bombers of the South African and Australian air forces, a front line report from Italy said today.

GERMAN ATTACK IN SOUTH ITALY POSSIBLE: LANZA

Move to Circle Allies May Be Made.

[This is the second of two articles discussing the war in Italy, in the light of the recent allied landing south of Rome.]

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and a recognized authority on military matters.]

The present situation in Italy is that the mountain warfare along the Garigliano river is yet on. It seems to be a rather desperate fight. Both sides are giving of their best. The allies, as usual, are advancing, but at a slow rate.

In the rear of the German army is the newly landed allied force near Nettuno. This force is probably ready to spring at the Germans as they go by on their way back to Rome. But suppose the Germans don't go back. In this case there may be nothing to spring upon.

Salerno to Present.

Not invariably, but frequently in military operations, maneuvers are made under the supposition that the enemy may follow one of several plans open to him. Measures are prepared to counter whichever of these plans he may choose. Sometimes the enemy does none of the things it was thought he would do. He does something which was unexpected, and for which no plan to counter him has been provided.

In the Salerno, Italy, expedition the allies had planned to cut off the German army, which was erroneously believed to be to the south. Instead it was to the north, and was able to arrive at Salerno in time to put up a stiff fight. From that event has resulted the present situation in Italy.

Having landed at Salerno, which was about as far south as possible, troops either had to make the best of it or withdraw. As the latter method would have been most hazardous with the enemy in strength right behind retreating troops, they stayed. Thus began the present Italian campaign.

Nazi Course Uncertain.

It is by no means certain that the Germans will either fall back from their present positions, and march in front of the Nettuno beachhead to be sprung at, or that they will adopt a hedgehog defense, and allow the troops from Nettuno to close in on them from their rear.

If the Germans have reserves available, as to which nothing is known, their best move would be to attack southward directly toward Naples. If the Germans do not attack it would be an indication that they do not have reserves at hand, or that if they have, they are withholding them against another landing elsewhere. The Germans may consider the Nettuno landing as a feint.

Mention has already been made that the American 7th army is not being used. Because the Italian people are divided between Fascists and anti-Fascists, both the Germans and the Americans have sympathizers in Italy who supply spies in the other's occupied territories. The Germans probably know where the 7th army is and how many divisions it has available. Reports from Spain indicate that the Germans consider it might land on the south French coast.

Nazis Could Use Reserves.

Information is that the Germans have a reserve in north Italy. It has been variously reported as anywhere from 12 to 20 divisions. Not all could be sent elsewhere.

Whether the Germans will use this reserve, or part of it, to meet the present situation south of Rome is unknown.

If nothing happens at Nettuno, Gen. Wilson would have the opportunity to build up his force there into a force capable of carrying out a major attack toward Rome. The time required for this would depend upon the weather, for supplies and reënforcements must land at just one very small port, or on open beaches. These are fine bathing resorts, but in stormy weather they are not easy to land on.

COL. GARDINER VISITS FRONT LINE POSITIONS ALONG CASSINO FRONT

WITH THE 5TH ARMY BEFORE CASSINO, Jan. 30 [Delayed]—(AP).—To the American infantrymen who have fought to within less than two miles of the central bulwark of the Cassino corridor, the sound of mission bells is an oddly contrasting music to the noise of artillery and Nazi "screeming meemies." The bells are sounded by monks in the Benedictine monastery on the mountain above Cassino. The echoes drift down to the weary, battle-grimed men below.

"The boys think it very strange to hear these peaceful church bells every day in the midst of the sounds of battle," said Lt. Col. Henry Gardiner, former Chicago attorney and hero of the Tunisian campaign, after an inspection of front-line infantry. A German shell burst showered his jeep with dirt. Gardiner and others agree that the Americans have had to fight for every foot here because of the tremendous strength of the long-prepared German positions, and there are more ahead.

REPORT FASCIST IS GROOMED TO REPLACE FRANCO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 31 [Monday].—The Communist Daily Worker, thru its diplomatic correspondent, reported that Gen. Miguel Aranda, "one of the most notorious Fascist generals in the Spanish war," was being groomed to supersede Generalissimo Francisco Franco or to become the real power in Spain if the present regime cracks under allied economic pressure. The Daily Worker said that altho in London and Washington there were no doubts of the allies' power to break Franco, in those capitals as well as in Madrid, "there have for months been active intrigues designed to replace him—or the Falange—with some regime different from the democratic Spanish republic."

REDS 17 MILES FROM ESTONIA; TAKE 100 TOWNS

Three Armies Drive Along 250 Mile Front.

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP).—The Red army driving toward the Estonian border and southward along the railway to Luga and Pskov captured more than 50 localities today, Moscow announced tonight.

The Russians were only 17 miles from the Estonian border with the capture of the railway junction of Veimarn, said a Moscow broadcast bulletin recorded by the soviet monitor.

More than 100 places were rewon by three Russian armies attacking on a 230 mile northern front from Novosokolniki in the south to the Gulf of Finland, the bulletin said. Among these were several more swept up west and northwest of Novosokolniki, which was taken Saturday in a new soviet offensive.

One group of Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad forces was nearing Estonia while two others were advancing southward along the Leningrad-Pskov and Leningrad-Vitebsk railroads.

Cut Vitebsk Line.

The Russian army newspaper Red Star said the Germans were trying to cling to these railroads, but were not slowing up the soviet offensive to any great degree. The armies were within 55 and 40 miles, respectively, of Batetskaya and Luga, junctions linking the two main north-south lines in the areas.

Below Batetskaya and Luga the armies of Gen. K. A. Meretskov had already cut the line to Vitebsk and were threatening the Pskov line. These forces were within 12 miles of Batetskaya and 17 miles from Luga.

The closest Russian forces to Pskov were those astride a highway farther south. Having outflanked Shimsk near the southwestern shores of Lake Ilmen, these units were 80 miles from the gateway to southern Estonia and northern Latvia.

A third Russian army of the second Baltic front, under Gen. Markian M. Popov, was striking beyond Novosokolniki within 60 miles of Latvia in a drive paralleling the westward thrusts of the other two armies far to the north. The Moscow radio reported that German colonists were fleeing from the Baltic area along with the retreating Nazi troops.

GERMAN WAR REPORT

Following is the German Sunday war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press:

"Northwest of Kirovograd, southwest of Cherkassi and in the areas east and southeast of Belaya Tserkov [middle Dnieper] our troops are engaged in heavy defensive struggles with strong enemy infantry and tank formations.

"Whereas the bolsheviks have succeeded in breaking thru in some sectors their other attacks were thrown back with high enemy losses.

"In the course of our counter-attacks south of Pogrebishche [southwest Ukraine] strong enemy forces were encircled. After repelling repeated relief attacks and attempts at breaking out.

"Other attacks by our tank formations west of Polonnóye [western Ukraine] recaptured several localities. Here, too, the enemy suffered heavy losses. In fighting at the head of his division Maj. Gen. Schulz, who a few days ago was invested by the Fuehrer with the highest decoration for bravery, died a hero's death as the commander of a tank division. In him the army loses one of its best officers, and the tank army loses an exemplary commander.

"In the area west of Novograd Volynski [near Polish border] activity has been revived again. Bolshevist thrusts were repelled.

"Between the Pripet and the Bereshina [rivers] all soviet attempts to extend their dents resulting from the last few days of fighting were frustrated. North of Nevel, local bolshevist attacks broke down.

"The front jutting out near Novosokolniki was taken back to a prepared position.

"Between Lake Ilmen and the Gulf of Finland our troops at several places repulsed strong enemy attacks. Heavy fighting is in progress with the bolshevists thrusting farther west and southward."

RUSSIA SPURNS JUGO-SLAV KING IN TREATY PLEA

Hints Reds Aloof on Internal Affairs.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Following closely on the soviet snub to the Polish government in exile in London, news reached here today that Moscow has spurned overtures from King Peter's Jugo-Slav government in Cairo.

King Peter.

Recently, it was learned, the Jugo-Slavs sent Moscow a proposal for a treaty of friendship and mutual aid, similar to the soviet-Czecho-Slovak treaty signed in Moscow by President Eduard Benes. In rejecting this advance, the soviet government, it is believed, disclaimed categorically any intention of interfering with Jugo-Slav internal affairs and expressed doubt about the attitude of King Peter's government toward the struggle being waged in Jugo-Slavia.

Aid to Chetniks Decreases.

The gulf between the government in Cairo and the active resistance movement in Jugo-Slavia has widened noticeably in recent weeks. Allied military aid for the Partisans under Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz in the form of supplies and air support has been increasing while allied contacts with the Chetniks under Gen. Draja Mihailovitch [who holds an appointment as war minister in the emigre government] have steadily decreased.

Action to end the crisis over Mihailovitch's position in Jugo-Slavia is expected soon. It is believed that allied dissatisfaction with the role Mihailovitch is now playing has reached a point where it can be solved only by direct action, such as the withdrawal of recognition as an allied commander. The front held by Mihailovitch in old Serbia has long been completely inactive.

Political Relations Sag.

Altho he has seldom rejected an allied suggestion about fighting in so many words, Mihailovitch generally has found excuses to avoid action or acted on a small scale. Furthermore, according to British sources, he has refused to repudiate certain bands of Chetniks which are known beyond doubt to be collaborating with the Nazis.

Thus, while the allied policy toward Jugo-Slav affairs has been somewhat clarified militarily, political relations remain obscure and unsatisfactory. For instance, while the emigre government in Cairo in recent weeks has been attacking Tito and his Partisans in the bitterest terms, British ministers in the house of commons have extolled the efforts of the Partisans as a substantial contribution toward Germany's defeat.

Hero Comes Home

Lt. Joseph D. Kessler shows his air medal to his fiancee, Eleanor Facko, in Blue Island.

They welcomed their leading air hero in Blue Island yesterday when Lt. Joseph D. Kessler, 23 years old, came home from England. A Rock Island brakeman on the day of the Pearl Harbor attack, he was an enlisted man in the air forces next day. Now he wears the silver star, the Purple Heart, and the air medal. He has piloted Liberators over Bremen and Vienna and was invalided home because of frozen hands and feet.

He is visiting his mother, Mrs. Walter Reinhardt, 2211 Prairie avenue, Blue Island while on leave from Billings hospital at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Lt. Kessler was awarded the silver star for his feat in bombing Vienna after his plane was attacked by six German fighters. Altho his plane was riddled by 600 bullets, he landed his ship at Salerno, Italy. A crewman suffered broken legs when a shell exploded in the rear fuselage. As Lt. Kessler puts it: "We wobbled back."

But his family yesterday knew Lt. Kessler could do just that. "Joe made and flew air models in the park from boyhood," they explained.

'PIAT,' BRITAIN'S LATEST WEAPON, RIDDLES TANKS

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—A 33 pound infantry weapon called the "Piat," which can pierce four inches of the finest armor plate with the power of a 75 millimeter gun, has been knocking out German tanks and pillboxes in Italy for some time, the British information service disclosed tonight.

This newest British tank buster—not to be confused with the famed American "Bazooka," altho its purpose is similar—is easily carried by one man and can be put into action in a few seconds. It fires a 2¾ pound bomb, but its weight is 2 pounds less than that of the old anti-tank rifle.

Fired from Shoulder.

A spring mechanism insures so light a recoil that the Piat can be fired from the shoulder. Infantrymen using it in that fashion, with the fore part of the weapon rested, have been trained to hit a moving tank at a range of 100 yards.

This weapon, called "Piat" from the initials of its official name, "projector infantry anti-tank," can fire a number of bombs in quick succession. With the butt placed on the ground to give elevation, German transport, machine gun nests, and similar targets have been knocked out at ranges up to 350 yards.

Turned Out in Quantities.

Canadian troops, using the "Piat" in tough, close fighting in Italy, have employed it with lethal effect, it was disclosed, and one British division piled up an impressive record with it against pillboxes.

The British ministry of supply is producing the new weapon in quantity and the Canadian department of munitions and supply announced tonight that at least one type of bomb will be manufactured in Canada.

Royce, U.S. Commander in Middle East, Wins D.S.M.

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 30 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Ralph Royce, commander of American forces in the middle east, was awarded the distinguished service medal today for "exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service as commander of the 1st air force at Mitchel field, N. Y., from April to August, 1943." Gen. Royce already holds the distinguished service cross and the distinguished flying cross for leading 13 planes from bases in Australia early in 1942 in a raid on Japanese positions in the Philippine Islands, the longest raid of the war up to that time.

SAYS MOTORIST CHASED HER. Martha Wallburg, 16 years old, 2759 North Leavitt street, told Sheffield police last night that a youth who attempted to induce her to enter his car a few doors from her home got out and chased her. She said she ran in the house and slammed the door.

HIT-RUN DRIVER KILLS MAN, 64, ON SOUTH SIDE

Raymond Campbell, 64 years old, 4923 Cottage Grove avenue, was killed last night when struck at 50th street and Cottage Grove avenue by an automobile whose driver failed to stop. He was pronounced dead at Chicago hospital.

Ruben P. Minnich, 35, 1315 Brown street, Des Plaines, war worker and orchestra drummer, was fatally injured early yesterday when his automobile collided with a milk truck on U. S. route 20, 12 miles east of Elgin. He died in St. Joseph's hospital, Elgin. Police said they believed Minnich, who was returning to his home from an orchestra engagement, had fallen asleep at the wheel.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 30 (AP).—The Germans are transferring troops from the Russian front to Jutland and summer hotels and villas have been requisitioned to quarter them, a Danish press service dispatch said today.

LOSS OF $50,000 CAUSED BY FIRE IN STEEL PLANT

Fire of undetermined origin inflicted damage estimated by Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan at at least $50,000 early today at the plant of the Gary Steel Supply company, 2300 South Springfield avenue.

A 5-11 alarm brought dozens of pieces of fire equipment to the scene to protect the Ogden avenue car barn directly across 23d street, and the lumber yard of the City Wrecking & Lumber company, 2301 South Pulaski road, which adjoins the plant on the west. Hose lines were run across the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy tracks which bound the plant on the south, interrupting rail traffic.

Part of the plant is operated as a foundry, and a quantity of coke inside added to the intensity of the fire. The plant works a night shift except Sundays and only a watchman was in the plant when the fire started.

NAZIS OR REDS WILL CONQUER EUROPE: HITLER

Warns Germany It Faces a Hard Year.

"Only One Victor."

"Therefore one thing is certain: From this fight only one can emerge as victor and this will be either Germany or soviet Russia.

"A German victory means preservation of Europe and a soviet victory means Europe's annihilation.

"This is so obvious that even every Englishman who is not absolutely stupid ought to know it. If, despite this, it is made to appear with genuine British hypocrisy as tho it could be different, then this is due to the fact that the guilty war criminals in London after all see no possibility of extricating themselves from their own entanglement and that above all, retreat is barred for them by their Jewish wire pullers also with regard to international politics.

"The question confronting both England and the United States hence no longer is whether they want or are able after this war to fight bolshevism, but whether they will be able to defend themselves against bolshevism in their own countries.

Cites Polish Guarantee.

"What Europe in practice could expect from British promises of help is best proved by the Anglo-American attitude toward Poland, Finland, the Baltic states, as well as entire southeast Europe.

"By their unscrupulous guarantee to help Poland this state had once been incited to war against Germany. Under the lying pretext that other states must be protected against Germany, mutual assistance pacts were forced upon them and today under the same pretexts all these states have been dropped and sacrificed.

"They must be sacrificed, not because this is demanded by the individual Englishman but because Great Britain is incapable of preventing such a development in case of a bolshevist victory. But not only this but also because they are not even in a position to pursue a different policy in the face of their own opposition which is infected by bolshevism.

"Moreover, every state which has delivered itself up to such an extent to Jewry as Great Britain must succumb to this plague sooner or later unless at the last moment it recovers again and removes by force these baccili from its body. The assumption that one can live peacefully or even come to adaptation of one's own interests with ferments of this decomposition of nations is equal to hoping that the human body is in a position to assimilate plague baccili forever.

"The problem of saving European states and the saving of Europe therefore is a problem which can be solved exclusively by the National Socialist German people, its armed force, and by states allied with it.

"Complete Extermination."

"If, however, the reich were to break up, no other state in Europe could offer effective resistance to this new invasion of Huns—that is also known to the Kremlin. Hence in the case of a victory of the Kremlin, from mere precaution for the future, complete extermination by bolshevism would be the lot of the German nation; this aim has been frankly admitted by international Jewry.

"In this connection it is immaterial whether the Jewish champions of this aim are in England or in the United States, whether they are roaming any European state or whether they are directing in their central headquarters in Moscow.

"It is likewise immaterial whether European or non-European statesmen perceive these facts or whether they do not want to believe them. But it is above all immaterial whether it is believed in this or that country that by servile petting poison may be taken out of the Jewish bacteria they fostered themselves.

"Perish in Swamps."

"If Germany were not to be victorious the fate of north, central, and southern European states would be sealed within a few months. Western Europe would follow suit shortly thereafter.

"Ten years later the old continent would have lost all its characteristics which have become so dear to us with their 2500 year old culture and material development.

"Peoples as bearers of this civilization, representatives of cultural life, spiritual leaders of nations, moreover would perish in forests and swamps if not liquidated by a bullet in the neck.

"The devastating eternal Jew then could celebrate his second triumphant Purim [Jewish festival]. That the German people are able today to wage this decisive war for their maintenance and that of the whole European continent we have to thank God Almighty, who 11 years ago allowed national socialism to reach its goal victoriously.

"Without Jan. 30, 1933, and without the National Socialist revolution, without its gigantic cleansing and reconstruction work there would be today in Europe not one factor able to oppose the bolshevist colossus.

"Germany Formerly Sick."

"The former Germany was herself so sick and weakened by the growing Jewish infection that she could hardly think of mastering the bolshevik danger at home, quite apart from warding it off at her frontiers.

"By mobilizing the proletarian slaves it might be hoped that, following the extermination of the national intelligentsia, they might be all the better and definitely brought down to the level of the coolie.

"But even had this process of bolshevist revolt within Germany not led to complete success, a state with the democratic Weimar constitution would have been a ridiculous and helpless entity in the face of the big world political tasks of the present times.

Cites Party's History.

"In order to be prepared for this conflict not only problems of power but above all social and economic problems had to find solution. Because National Socialism 11 years ago immediately began to put into practice its program, it succeeded in the right time in building up a state which was not only strong at home but also was strong outwardly to fulfill that European mission which in ancient times Greece fulfilled against the Persians, Rome against the Punic people and in later times, the occident against invasions from the east.

"Thus four great tasks confronted us in 1933 among many others. On their solution depended not only the future of the reich, but of saving Europe and perhaps human civilization.

"By the solution of social problems the reich had to regain its lost social peace at home. The class feud between the burgeoisie and the proletariat had to be removed and replaced by a genuine peoples' community. The appeal to common sense had to be amplified by reckless elimination from all camps of all malicious and opposing elements.

Made Own Armament.

"The social and political union of the people had to be complemented by a national political one, that is, a reich which not only politically but as to states was torn, had to be replaced by a national socialist state of one construction and with one leadership able to face and effectively withstand even the most severe attack and acid test which the future might hold.

"The unity of a state founded nationally and politically had the task of immediately creating that armed force which as to mentality and moral attitude, numerical strength and material equipment could be a sufficient instrument for the needs of self assertion.

"After the outside world had rejected all German offers for armament limitations, the reich had to make its own armament in keeping with the situation. In order to have even so much as a chance of maintaining its existence in Europe it was necessary to unite all those countries inhabited by Germans which for more than 1,000 years had been a part of the German reich, and which were indispensable economically and nationally for the maintenance of the reich, that is, for its political and military defenses.

"Youth Can Advance."

"Nothing but the solution of these tasks could result in a state which was able within and without to conduct the struggle for self-defense and for the maintenance of the family of European nations.

"The fact that every young German today, without regard to his birth, family, or wealth or position, or his parents or education, but only on the strength of his own merits can rise to any position is one of the most decisive deeds of the national socialist revolution.

"How rapidly this socialist reconstruction of our national body proceeded has shown itself best today in the war. Our armed forces are almost completely national socialist. More than 60 per cent of young officers have risen from the rank and file and thus thrown a bridge to hundreds of thousands of workmen and peasants as well as the bourgoisie.

Repetition of 1924.

"Jewry itself has lost all power in our vast reich. By committing the crime of starting the war against National Socialist Germany, Jewry will assist in spreading the idea of the national socialist revolution and bring closer to other nations the elements of scientific conception and factual solution of this problem.

"The World war of 1939 will go down in history as a repetition on a gigantic scale of the trial of the party in 1924. As in those days the attack to destroy the movement had caused the spread of its ideals ove rthe whole of Germany with the force of an explosion so will this war in a few years open the eyes of peoples about the Jewish problem and the national socialist reply and the measures taken for its elimination then will appear not only worth imitating but natural.

"The greatness of the world historical struggle will then sharpen the eyes and brains of nations so that they will be able to think and act in gigantic historical dimensions.

"From millions of soldiers and war prisoners will then arise millions of propagandists of this recognition.

"That the National Socialist movement has placed in the hands of the German nation arms for self-assertion cannot be proved better but by the gigantic fight which now has been raging for five years. This struggle cannot take any other course than any other big struggle has taken in the past on this earth.

"Victory Is Certain."

"The ups and downs of the events therefore can oppress only those who have not learned to see or think historically.

"The way from the vision of a half-blind soldier of the year 1918 to the reality of the National Socialist state of 1944 was more gigantic and certainly more difficult than the way of the present reich to final victory.

"That at the end of this struggle will stand Germany's victory, and that of Europe over their western and eastern criminal enemies, is for every National Socialist not only an expression of his faith but, as the conclusion of the entire last fight, an innermost certainty.

"The home country, as hard as it might be, eventually never will despair because it knows about its fate and sees its sons fight for it at the front. The front will never despair, even after its most difficult days, because in its trust is given the working and no less valiantly struggling home front.

"Bombs Solidify Us."

"The attempt of our opponents to bring about the collapse of the German people and the reich by high explosive and incendiary bombs in the end will solidify their socialist unity and will create that hard state which has been slated by providence to shape European history during the coming centuries.

"That this gigantic process which is rocking the world progresses with suffering and pains is in keeping with the law of Providence which makes it that not only everything great is created by struggle but lets even the individual human being come into this world with pains.

"The 12th year of the reorganization of the people will confront the front and the home with the hardest task imaginable.

"But however the storm may rage and howl around our fortress, in the end it will abate one day like every thunderstorm and from dark clouds again the sun will shine on all those who, steadfastly and unflinchingly true to their faith, did their duty.

"Hence the greater today our sorrows, the most magnanimously the Almighty will weigh, judge and regard the achievements of those who in the face of a world of enemies carried the colors in faithful hands forward undespairingly.

"Therefore, this fight in the end will lead to the biggest victory of the German reich in spite of all the devilish tricks of our opponents."

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

C. T. A. writes: "I was inducted into the army and then discharged after being held for 63 days at the reception center. My discharge says I was discharged for physical reasons. I am a chemist and reëntered my old job. I was at first classified 4-F by my local board and then placed on a replacement schedule by my employer. After about six weeks after leaving service I was reclassified to 2-B. What I want to know is if the 2-B classification is good for only six months or less, will I again be reclassified to 1-A and inducted again as before or what?"

ANSWER: If you were discharged for physical reasons, your local board must send you to the selective service medical advisory board for clearance before reclassifying you into a class "available for military service" [1-A]. If you are found unacceptable by this medical board you will be retained in your present or other deferred classification.

C. H. writes: "I am a veteran, having received a discharge after six months' service because of a history of asthma. I am informed that the governor wants recruits for the Illinois home guard and I would like to know if I might be acceptable?"

ANSWER: Almost every state has a "reserve militia" and welcomes discharged service men whose physical incapacities will not interfere too much with light duty. Application is made at the nearest state armory, or inquiry may be addressed military department, Illinois state militia, Springfield, Ill. or the capital of the state wherein the applicant resides.

E. M. O. writes: "A young man enlisted in the navy in January, 1942, took his training at Great Lakes and was then assigned to a merchant marine ship which was torpedoed and he was lost. He had taken out a $10,000 insurance policy while at Great Lakes and named his mother and father as beneficiaries, each in the amount of $5,000, and the premiums were deducted from his pay. The veterans administration notified the parents that their claim was disallowed on the grounds that they have sufficient income to take care of themselves. Under what law is this ruling made?"

ANSWER: The indication from the veterans administration about the parents being able to support themselves leads us to believe that the young man had not applied and paid for regular national service life insurance, but he may have been covered under the "automatic insurance" available at that time for the men who had not had proper opportunity to apply for the regular insurance. This "automatic insurance" required the dependents to be "in fact dependent" upon the Yank before benefits might be paid. If he did have the regular insurance and the insurance was in force, then the veterans administration is in error and the claim should be reopened or appealed.

GROUP FORMED TO COMBAT NAZI ABUSE OF JEWS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—Associate Justice Murphy of the United States Supreme court today announced the formation of a national committee to combat "Nazi persecution and extermination of the Jews."

"Here at home," the jurist said in a statement, "in a country founded upon the right of every individual to justice, religious, and personal freedom, Nazi propaganda is breeding the germs of hatred against the Jews."

Murphy said sponsors of the committee under his chairmanship include Gov. Walter S. Goodland of Wisconsin, and Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago.

BERLIN, HANOVER AND BRUNSWICK HIT IN BIG RAIDS

Yanks Down 91 German Planes; Lose 24.

LONDON, Jan. 31 [Monday] (AP).—Royal air force bombers struck shattered, fire-blackened Berlin again last night to carry on the allied air offensive, it was announced today, after mighty armadas of United States heavy bombers pounded airplane factories at Brunswick and industries and railway yards at Hanover in daylight.

This latest British raid was the 14th recent major attack on Berlin, which was given its hardest blows by British planes last Thursday and Friday.

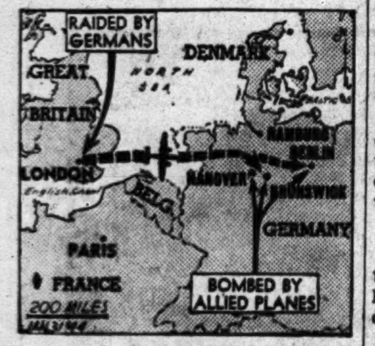
The American Flying Fortresses and Liberators with their fighter escort penetrated thru one of the most violently defended aerial regions in the world to reach their targets yesterday and shot down 91 Nazi planes. Hanover and Brunswick are 150 and 120 miles west of Berlin. Twenty bombers and four fighters failed to return from the raids on these two cities.

The Fortresses and Liberators accounted for 46 of the enemy planes. The fighter escorts in bagging the remaining 45 set up a new record for the second day in a row. They shot down 42 in Saturday's raid on Frankfurt.

Bag 103 Planes in Day.

The American attacks on Hanover and Brunswick were under way as British and Dominion light bombers and fighters swept over northern France and Holland in operations which resulted in the downing of 12 more enemy planes, bringing the total bag for the day to 103. One other allied plane was lost in these operations.

There were indications that the fleet of Liberators, Flying Fortresses, and fighter escorts approached in size the record-breaking force of more than 800 heavy bombers and an estimated 700 fighters that loosed 1,800 tons of bombs on industrial Frankfurt.



Where bombers hit yesterday.

It was estimated that in the four days of the British-American aerial offensive 5,000 planes have blasted Germany and occupied Europe with 7,000 tons of bombs.

Thus far this offensive has cost the allies 164 aircraft, mostly heavy bombers, while the Nazis have lost at least 215 of their first line fighters. In the last two days, American planes alone have shot down 193 fighters.

Bomb Thru Clouds.

The first crewmen to return from the 450 mile trip to Hanover and Brunswick said it was made above an overcast and that the bombing was done thru the clouds.

One Fortress pilot, Capt. James L. Griffin, of Danville, Ill., telling of attacks by German fighter planes, said that "one cocky Focke-Wulf came right in close and let a rocket go at our lead ship. The rocket exploded just above and ahead, but an instant later some one really blew up the fighter. There was just a black cloud of smoke and falling pieces left."

This theater's leading ace, Capt. Walker Mahurin of Fort Wayne, Ind., increased his total to 15 by knocking down a Junkers fighter.

Nazis Bomb London.

Germany struck back at London Saturday night, killing 26 persons and injuring 25. Three of the raiders were shot down.

The German high command acknowledged that Saturday's American smash at Frankfurt caused heavy damage. It claimed 61 planes, mostly four-engined bombers, were shot down over Frankfurt and in other engagements over occupied territory. A joint United States headquarters and British air ministry bulletin said 31 bombers and 13 fighters failed to return from Frankfurt.

Great fires still are raging in Frankfurt, said the Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Morgonstidningen. He reported that as a result of the raid the city was "almost completely destroyed and life has ceased to exist."

The Swedish correspondent added that time bombs are exploding continuously and that nearly every house in the city is damaged. He reported that panic stricken workers have been stopped by police from fleeing their jobs.

2 CRUISERS 'SUNK' BY JAPS BACK IN LINE OF BATTLE

Minneapolis and New Orleans Repaired.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—The Japanese, apparently impressed by what the cruiser Minneapolis did to them, called her a battleship when they overestimated their retaliatory action and "sank" her by radio.

In the same action the crew of the cruiser New Orleans watched the bow of their own ship sink off the port quarter with the guns of the forward turret pointing skyward. She too was among the four vessels the Japanese reported they destroyed in battle north of the Solomon Islands Nov. 30, 1942. Only one actually was sunk; the Northampton.

The enemy didn't say that the engagement wrote a bloody period to their last big scale effort to reenforce Guadalcanal against the advancing marines.

Ship Cut Apart.

With the two ships back in action, the navy revealed today their heroic part in the encounter which cost the Japanese nine ships.

Literally cut apart by torpedoes aft of the forward gun turret, the New Orleans was out of action early, but not before she had done her share in sinking five enemy ships. Then with only bulkheads holding out the seas, she wallowed into Tulagi harbor. There her crew used logs to reinforce the bulkheads for a 1,700 mile run to Australia, where a temporary bow was fitted for the long trip back to the United States.

Meantime at Puget Sound navy yard, workers prefabricated a new bow while the cruiser limped home. It was ready when she arrived. Machinery was borrowed from other cruisers—a new turret was taken from a ship under overhaul—to speed her back to sea in record time.

Torpedoes and shells struck the Minneapolis in the same battle. Fire engulfed her from the waterline to superstructure. But she already had done her part, definitely sinking one ship and helping destroy two more.

One Cruiser Lost.

Despite her damage, Capt. Charles E. Rosendahl of Cleburne, Tex., now a rear admiral, brought the Minneapolis into Tulagi. There Seabees joined with her crew in making her seaworthy for a long trip to the Mare Island navy yard, where repairs were completed.

Three other American cruisers participated in the battle—one, the Northampton, was lost; another, the Pensacola, was damaged and has been repaired; the fifth has not been named.

Opposing that force were at least eight Japanese destroyers, and, the navy said, "possibly several cruisers" guarding troop transports and supply ships. When the battle ended two of the enemy's large destroyers—maybe cruisers—four destroyers, two transports, and one cargo ship were on the bottom.

Auto Licenses in Illinois Decrease 155,416 in '43

Illinois passenger car licenses decreased 155,416 in 1943 to 1,592,837, and other motor vehicle licensing showed similar declines from 1942, a report from the office of Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes said yesterday. Automobile fees fell to $11,817,523.70 from $13,288,084.71 for last year, compared with $25,105,608.41 the previous year. Licensed drivers increased 199,372 for a total of 2,886,130.

26TH 1944 RAID ON RABAUL NETS 50 JAP PLANES

ADVANCED HDQ., New Guinea, Jan. 31 [Monday]—(AP).—Rabaul, Japan's sea and air fortress now fast becoming a New Britain junkyard, was hit for the 26th time this month on Friday, and 30 enemy aircraft were shot down, with 20 additional probably destroyed on the ground.

Twelve hits were scored on antiaircraft positions.

Seventy enemy fighters rose to meet the attacking force, and in the ensuing scrap 30 were shot down, with 12 more listed as probables. We lost only six planes, the bulletin said. On the previous day 23 Jap planes had been shot down.

The bag brought to 546 the number of Japanese planes destroyed in January, with 171 more "probables," as against allied losses of only 97. This is 218 more than the December total.

The assault was a combination naval and 13th air force attack by Avengers, Dauntlesses and Lightnings. Large fires were started at the Kakurai airdrome. Anti-aircraft fire was heavy at first but then dwindled.

Bombers Bag Seven.

Our bombers accounted for two of the enemy planes shot down and for five of the "probables." Medium bombers with a fighter cover returned to Rabaul hours later and strafed Rabaul's Tobera airstrip in a dusk sweep which started fires, silenced several gun positions, and picked off an additional parked plane. There was no interception.

Of our six losses, two of the pilots were saved.

On New Guinea, where allied ground forces are advancing toward the sea and air base of Madang, fighter planes and dive bombers strafed and bombed varied enemy concentrations. Bougainville Island shore targets were hit by naval bombardment.

Chicagoan Bags 17th.

AT AN ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC AIR BASE, Jan. 30 (AP).—Marine Capt. Donald N. Aldrich, 26 years old, Chicago, rose to high rank among fighter aces with his exploits over Rabaul this week, running his score of knocked down Zeros to 17. Capt. Aldrich shot down four in one day.

Capt. Aldrich is a member of the "Fighting Corsairs," commanded by Maj. R. Gordon Owens Jr., Greensville, S. C. The squadron has 105 kills. Lt. John C. Thornton, Chicago, a member of Thomas' squadron, the Wake Avengers, also got one Jap plane.

"95 SHOT DOWN"—TOKIO.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Tokio radio, boasting of the "invincibility of Japanese defense" at Rabaul, said yesterday that 95 allied planes were shot down Friday over that harbor, in a raid in which Gen. MacArthur's headquarters had listed the loss of only four planes. The Tokio version, as relayed by Berlin radio, gave Japanese losses as six.

The Japanese said the 95 allied planes shot down were half of the attacking force.

Another Tokio broadcast said American bombers had attacked the Japanese hospital ship Koshino Maru Wednesday in the southwestern Pacific, but that the ship escaped damage. The Japanese repeatedly have alleged attacks on hospital vessels.

'Community Cocktail' Lays Five Dishwashers Low

New York, Jan. 30 [Special].—A "community cocktail," compounded by dishwashers in Rogers' Corner restaurant, in midtown was being investigated today. It was the kitchen help's custom, police learned, to salvage drinks left over by patrons and to dump the mixture into a large container, from which the employes later imbibed. The inquiry was begun after five of the dishwashers became ill early today and were taken to hospitals.

'HI-YO SILVER!' THIS IS BIRTHDAY OF LONE RANGER

Starts 12th Year on the Air Tonight.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A dispatch from allied air headquarters in England recently disclosed that the leading plane in a Flying Fortress formation which swept over Berlin was named The Lone Ranger. One of the bombs it dropped was stenciled "Hi-Yo Silver!"

"Hi-Yo Silver!" was the battle cry of marines at Tarawa. The same call resounded in the final push to Buna. It was used as a password in the battle for Tunis. One correspondent wrote of accompanying a messenger on a 45 mile tour of an American general's scattered units. Whenever they approached an outpost the driver yelled the password, "Hi-Yo Silver!" and in reply came the sentinel's leather-lunged, "Away!"

The Lone Ranger starts his 12th year on the air tonight. The great majority of America's fighters are young men. A few years ago they followed the masked horseman's adventures on W-G-N and Mutual. Now the Ranger gallops out over the Blue network.

Brace Beemer, who plays the Ranger, is one of the youngest veterans of World War I. He enlisted when 14 years old, served with the Rainbow division, fought in many battles, and was wounded and decorated. He entered high school after the war at 16, with an honorable discharge from the army.

The Boy Scouts of America will be commissioned as mop up men for the fourth war loan drive in a broadcast over NBC at 2:30 p. m. next Saturday by Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau. . . . Judith Waller of NBC is finishing the manuscript of a book devoted to public service broadcasts which Houghton-Mifflin will publish next spring. . . . A lively interest in frequency modulation broadcasting was displayed at New York's two day meeting. Chairman James L. Fly of the federal communications commission told the F.M. people: "None of us can stop it. F.M. is of age."

Kay Kyser launches his College of Musical Knowledge on its seventh year of continuous broadcasting on Wednesday. It started over W-G-N from the Blackhawk restaurant. . . . Howard Keegan has been appointed manager of WCFL, replacing Maynard Marquardt, who resigned to accept a west coast position. . . . Janette [Davis] has teamed up with the King's Jesters, male trio, for a series on WBBM. . . . She sings, too, on W-G-N's "Swing's the Thing" at 9:30 p. m. Thursdays.

E. D. M'DOUGAL JR. NAMED HEAD OF LAW INSTITUTE

Election of Edward D. McDougal Jr. as president of the Chicago Law institute, one of the oldest libraries in the nation, was disclosed yesterday by William S. Johnston, librarian. Other officers are Frank Smith Sims, first vice president; Louis P. Haller, second vice president; Herbert C. De Young, secretary; Roy C. Osgood, treasurer, and William S. Johnston, librarian. The institute was chartered in 1857, and its original collection of books was lost in the Chicago fire of 1871. It is located in the county building.

1,900 Call Off Strike at East Chicago Plant

A strike of 1,900 employes of the General American Transportation company in East Chicago, called last Thursday over the discharge of Thomas Thornton, an employe, was settled yesterday when the company agreed to rehire Thornton, and pay him for the period he was unemployed. Full production at the plant, which manufactures tank cars and war materials, will be resumed today, company officials said.

GUFFEY CLAIMS BARKLEY FIRED HIM FROM POST

Says He Didn't Resign Chairman Job.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—Sen. Guffey [D., Pa.] charged tonight that instead of resigning as chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, he had been removed from that post by Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.], senate majority leader.

Barkley said last night that Guffey had asked to be relieved and had made his resignation as chairman effective upon the selection of a successor. Barkley, who was out of town tonight, had said he probably would act next week on a replacement.

Guffey Under Fire.

Guffey, under fire from Sen. Byrd [D., Va.] and other southern senators because of his accusation that they had formed "an unholy alliance" with Republicans to defeat the administration's soldier voting bill, said in a statement that he would not comment at this time on what he termed Barkley's action in removing him.

Guffey also withheld comment on a letter by Byrd to District Commissioner Guy Mason accusing Guffey of using his official position to "advance his various demands upon the various agencies of the government."

Guffey Demand Rejected.

It was disclosed last week that District of Columbia officials had refused Guffey's request to give his family physician a place on the staff of a publicly operated hospital, after which Guffey had threatened an investigation of the health department.

"I will make no statement at present regarding Sen. Byrd's letter to Commissioner Mason or the action of Sen. Barkley in removing me as chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee," Guffey said.

In discussing plans to replace Guffey on the senatorial campaign committee, Barkley had said previously that the Pennsylvanian is ineligible to continue in the post because a senatorial campaign will take place in his state this year.

Killed by Monoxide Gas While Sleeping in Truck

Norman Newman, 27 years old, Hudson, Wis., was killed by carbon monoxide gas yesterday while sleeping in a truck parked in front of 2016 South Jefferson street. A companion, Elzie Smittler, 28, of Menominee, Wis., was overcome. He was removed to the People's hospital.

DANAHER DRAWS UP COMPROMISE ON SERVICE VOTE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—Signs of a compromise in the bitter soldier voting controversy emerged today despite the expressed determination of administration backers to force their bill thru congress without changes.

Sen. Danaher [R., Conn.] has worked out a proposal he hopes will overcome the objections of "state rights" proponents who contend the administration bill handicaps states that want to handle their own soldier absentee voting in this country.

Danaher expressed the belief that there is small hope of state absentee ballots ever reaching those in uniform overseas because of the difficulty involved in transporting the ballots.

Retains Federal Ballot.

Danaher would retain the federal war ballot—votes for President, Vice President, and members of congress—for every one in the army and navy stationed inside or outside the United States.

In addition voters in uniform in this country who want to cast a state ballot could do so by using the federal procedure if their states are willing.

States could notify the government that they will accept a federal postcard application as a bona fide request for a state ballot. If the state doesn't act before Aug. 1, however, the soldier can get at least a federal ballot to vote in the Presidential election.

Claim Federal Plan Gains.

In the house supporters of the federal ballot claimed a growing strength among southern Democrats who, at the outset, furnished practically all the opposition from within the administration party.

The house on Tuesday will take up a "state rights" bill passed by the senate. It simply directs the states to arrange their own absentee voting. Advocates of the federal ballot, circulating a petition to force a vote on that proposal, said they were picking up support among congressmen from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Kentucky, North Carolina, Texas, Tennessee, and Virginia.

Floor managers of the administration's war ballot bill in the senate will try to bring the debate to the voting stage tomorrow, hoping to pass the measure before the house acts on the question.

ILLINOIS V. F. W. ASKS POST-WAR BUSINESS AID

Removal of all governmental restrictions on business after the war to create a free enterprise and create more jobs was advocated yesterday by a rehabilitation committee of Illinois Veterans of Foreign Wars in the Morrison hotel.

The committee, headed by Earl Southard, past state commander, adopted an extensive rehabilitation and reëmployment program for men discharged from military service in World War II.

The program includes the stoppage of immigration during the post-war reëmployment period; placing of all veteran activities under one jurisdiction such as the veterans administration, and the return of women war workers to domestic tasks at the war's end to bring about more jobs for returning veterans.

Don't Ever Say It's Too Much Trouble!

by Bob Hope

I'VE been to hospitals in England where American boys, who had the world ahead of them a couple of years ago, lay thanking their stars that they were still alive. They didn't say, "What's the use?" In North Africa, I've seen a battalion of boys in from days of desert fighting, grey with fatigue, snap to attention as the colors went down. They didn't say, "It's too much bother."

* * *

So that when I find women here back home . . . women who are doing a swell job buying bonds, giving blood, taking a man's place . . . spoiling their record by not responding to the country's urgent plea for used kitchen fats, I feel we're letting those boys down hard! Cooking fats are urgently needed to make the glycerine essential for gunpowder, shells, bullets. For the wonderful sulfa drugs that prevent infection; for many other battlefield uses.

* * *

So urgently are fats needed to make glycerine that the government has authorized your meat dealer to give you, for every pound of used cooking fat you turn in, 4¢ and two free meat ration points for use any time, anywhere. Isn't the saving of these used fats a very small thing for any of us to do? My wife says it's easy, too. After you've got the cooking good out of your fats, strain them off into any sort of tin can, but please, not glass. When the can's full, rush it to your meat dealer. Do it, won't you?

COURTNEY SCANS DOWNSTATE PEP FOR HIS DRAFT

BY GUY GENTRY.

Upon the enthusiasm and the attendance figures at the state-wide meeting in Springfield today, called by downstate Democratic state's attorneys, may depend the decision of Thomas J. Courtney of Chicago to enter the Democratic race for governor.

Ward P. Holt, state's attorney of Marion county, who is acting as chairman of the Springfield meeting, and C. W. Burton of Madison county, said thousands of invitations had been issued to Democrats thruout the 101 downstate counties. Chicago party members will be welcomed, of course, but the leaders emphasized that the meeting was primarily a demonstration of Courtney support outside Cook county. Today's meeting was decided upon at a previous conference called by Holt and Burton and attended by 12 Democratic state's attorneys.

Courtney Ready to Accept.

From sources close to Courtney, it was reported he had virtually decided to enter the gubernatorial race, but was waiting to gauge the size and spirit of downstate support as shown at today's meeting, an avowed "draft Courtney" move, before making a final decision that would take him out of the race for reëlection as state's attorney and launch him in the state race for governor.

Courtney was the favorite gubernatorial candidate of downstate state's attorneys, who in a number of instances are the only Democratic officials remaining in their courthouses, even before Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes eliminated himself from the gubernatorial contest. They conferred with Courtney early in December, urging him to run, but Courtney wanted to see more substantial evidence of statewide support.

Likely Successors Scanned.

With the belief growing in Chicago that Courtney will make the race for governor, the list of possible candidates for state's attorney is increasing almost daily. Wilbert Crowley, first assistant to Courtney, is believed to be his favorite to succeed him in the Cook county prosecutor's job.

Other names that have been mentioned are those of James J. McDermott, member board of tax appeals; Circuit Judge Cornelius J. Harrington; Arthur A. Sullivan, former state chairman; Ald. James R. Quinn, 50th ward; Municipal Judge Matthew D. Hartigan; Superior Court Judge Harold G. Ward, and Master in Chancery John J. Kelly.

NEGROES PLEAD WITH F. D. R. TO PROTECT RACE

The Chicago Citizens' Committee of 1,000 and the National Negro council yesterday sent a telegram to President Roosevelt calling upon him to protect Negro soldiers and sailors from discrimination and to take action as commander in chief to correct the "intolerable treatment" accorded Negroes in many southern camps and in the Pacific theater of operations.

Edgar G. Brown of Washington, D. C., director of the national council, asserted in addresses before 2,500 persons in three south side churches that Mrs. Roosevelt admitted publicly a few days ago that Negroes had received unfair treatment and that she had requested a war department investigation.

A resolution adopted at the three church meetings called the attention of President Roosevelt to "continued and undenied abuses heaped upon thousands of Negro soldiers stationed at southern camps."

MURDER TRIAL OF STEPFATHER TO BEGIN TODAY

John William Shaffer, 28 years old, is scheduled to go to trial this morning before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in Criminal court on a charge of murder for the fatal beating last November of his stepdaughter, Lettie Joyce Weir, 5, in their home at 400 North Cicero avenue. Assistant State's Atty. Julius Sherwin said he will qualify the jury to inflict the death penalty.

At an inquest, Shaffer admitted beating the child with a leather strap and said he "must have been out of my head."

He apparently intended to lay the groundwork for an insanity plea when he testified that his mother was committed to a state hospital when he was 3, and asserted that he had not been in an insane asylum "as yet."

THE QUESTION.

What feminine fancy did you have a hard time to sell to your husband?

WHERE ASKED.

310 South Michigan building.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. Alex C. Gritsonis, stenographer, 6240 Giddings street—At first my husband objected mildly when I wore open toed shoes, but he really rebelled when I started using toe nail polish. Now he has grown as accustomed to polished toe nails as he has the polished finger nails that he didn't like at first either.

Mrs. Harold M. Knoth, office clerk, 6540 South Marshfield avenue—In my husband's estimation there are only a few women's hats that he considers hats. He likes the extremely tailored ones and it took me a long time to get him to see beauty in the creations I wore. At least he doesn't think they're ridiculous now.

Mrs. James P. McMahon, clerk, 6613 Normal avenue—My husband approved of most of the jewelry I wore and bought me more like it. But he didn't care for a silver chain ankle bracelet. I continued to wear the one I had and he soon accepted it as permanent, for one day he bought me a gold one.

Mrs. Frank H. Moss Jr., clerk, 7342 Dante avenue—On occasions my husband tried to prove to me that slacks weren't as comfortable as skirts are and he couldn't understand why women wore them. I still don't know myself, but I do wear them and he has begun to accept them as a necessary part of my wardrobe.

Mrs. Gunnard D. Odman, supervisor market research, 7951 Justine street—When the first open toed shoes came out my husband thought they were atrocious and ridiculous. Even so, I risked wearing a pair and gradually I've been buying them in more extreme styles. I don't think he even notices my shoes any more. At least he doesn't object.

Mrs. Richard Walsh, reservation clerk, 911 North Taylor avenue, Oak Park—The situation was reversed in our family. My husband sold me on the idea of feminine fancies. I had always worn extremely tailored and sport clothes until he started to buy very feminine and frilly things for me. I prefer them to other clothes now.

GOV. GREEN SAYS VOTE CODE AIDS MEN IN SERVICE

Amendment of the state election code at the recent special session of the legislature marks another important step in the over-all program for Illinois service men and women, Gov. Dwight H. Green said yesterday in his monthly radio report.

Passage of this legislation, the governor said, accomplishes something for them while they are still in service. Other phases, he pointed out, are mainly directed to adequate preparations for assisting them when the war has ended and they return home victorious.

Gov. Green explained that applications for absentee ballots may be obtained from the county clerk of the applicant's home county by applying in person, by mail, or by any friend or relative who may wish to perform this service. Application for these forms may be made at any time.

Absentee voters in service should fill in the form, sign, and swear it before any commissioned officer, and then mail or deliver it to the county clerk not more than 100 days nor less than five before the election. The county clerk will mail a ballot on receipt of this application.

FARLEY VISITS CHICAGO; SHUNS POLITICAL TALK

James A. Farley, former Democratic national chairman, said yesterday he is more interested in the soft drinking habits of the nation than in politics. Farley spent the week-end in Chicago. Asserting that his visit was strictly in the line of business, Farley declined to comment on recent political developments in either party.

He said he plans to be in Chicago for the Democratic national convention late in July and probably will have plenty to say then on political matters.

He plans to leave tonight for Denver.

THE COMMUNIST VOTE IN NEW YORK.

Mr. Roosevelt's regard for Communists is not what is called platonic. The relation is of the utmost intimacy. He gives them jobs in the government not only because he likes them and their ideas but also in return for political support received and in expectation of other favors to come. That was why he granted recognition to Russia, turned Browder loose, truckled to the Communist dominated maritime unions, and generally smoothed the path for the Communist element in the CIO. That is why he put Russia's war in Europe ahead of America's war in the Pacific. Mr. Roosevelt is indebted to Communists for strongly organized and zealous support at the polls, and he knows it and acknowledges it, if not often in words, then in deeds whose meaning is unmistakable.

A lot of good people refuse to believe this is so, but the record can leave no doubt of it. They insist that the Communist vote is so small that it isn't worth going after. They forget, for example, the 1938 election in New York. Mr. Roosevelt persuaded Mr. Lehman to run for reëlection as governor because his pulling power was needed. Mr. Lehman won by a margin of only 24,387. Most of his votes, of course, came to him as the Democratic candidate but the margin of victory was supplied by the American Labor party which had also nominated him. As the Labor party candidate he polled just short of 420,000 votes.

And what is the American Labor party and who are its supporters? The authoritative answer may be found in the Jan. 24 issue of the New Republic, a left-wing publication whose editors are in a position to know who are Communists because they rub elbows with them every day.

"The American Labor party . . .," says the New Republic, "consists of two factions. The Communist-led left wing and a right wing which is 'right' only by comparison with the Communists; it has, for example, about the same general philosophy and outlook as the New Republic.

"The Communists are a large minority in the state-wide organization of the ALP, and they control it in all boroughs of New York City except the Bronx. . . ."

The New Republic goes on to analyze the troubles of Sidney Hillman, the chairman of the CIO's political action committee, in his efforts to get the ALP under the thumb of the CIO trade unions and help Mr. Roosevelt with a fourth term.

"Since some of the CIO unions are Communist-led," the magazine reports, "this would mean that the Communists would probably control the ALP in New York City and would influence it strongly in the state as a whole."

The New Republic says, sagely, that if Mr. Roosevelt is to be reëlected he will need all the votes he can possibly get, "and especially in such a crucial state as New York." Precisely. That's why Mr. Roosevelt has always played for the Communist vote and is bidding for it now.

The 420,000 Communist and fellow-traveler votes explain why adequate forces have not reached MacArthur and why there have been no efforts to rescue tortured and starving Americans from Japanese prisons. Mr. Roosevelt's policy, it should be noted, has the approval of Wall street's international bankers and the subsidized New Deal newspapers. They have aided and abetted him in it.

PROSPECTS FOR RADIO FREEDOM.

A good many private business firms and industries have found it expedient to get along with the New Deal government. This has been particularly true of the Columbia, National, and Blue radio networks.

These broadcasting companies are at the mercy of the government because of the close regulation the federal communications commission imposes upon them. Unquestionably they are being exploited politically for the New Deal, yet they have replied to FCC's most drastic rulings with nothing more severe than verbal wrist slappings.

This complacent attitude has not gone unrewarded. What the networks seek is monopoly. What will most effectively destroy monopoly in the radio industry is the granting of licenses for frequency modulation broadcasting to all applicants. This the FCC has refused to do.

Frequency modulation is the radio of tomorrow. It has the double advantage of high fidelity and freedom from interference. There is virtually no limit to the number of frequency modulation stations that can be operated without creating interference. If the FCC would issue frequency modulation licenses to all who want them there would be more outlets than there are people capable of using them and the radio industry could be freed from governmental control.

If this should come to pass radio listeners would be able to get the best programs at any time and would not be restricted to the diet imposed by a few near-monopolies closely regulated by the government. We do not expect this suggestion to be accepted in the near future because such a system would destroy all excuse for the federal communications commission as the regulatory agent of the broadcasters, and the FCC and the New Dealers do not want that to happen.

WHY THE NEW DEAL WILL LOSE.

Elmer L. Genzmer has resigned as Democratic floor leader in the Wisconsin legislature at Madison. Mr. Genzmer, who is finishing his fifth term as a Democratic representative, said that he will seek reëlection this fall as a Republican. He denounced the Wisconsin Democrats as "seeking only an opportunity for public office for themselves or their satellites."

It is only a few weeks since State Sen. Nicholas L. Hubbard of Mount Pulaski, Ill., moved his seat from the Democratic to the Republican side of the Illinois senate in Springfield. Sen. Hubbard is a lifelong Democrat, but he announced that he will run for reëlection in the 28th district on the G. O. P. ticket.

"I do this that I may help end the conspiracy to destroy our economic freedom and our constitutional system of government," Sen. Hubbard said. Sen. Moore of Oklahoma, another lifelong Democrat, is another who has changed his party affiliation.

These men are examples of a trend that is sweeping the nation. Honest Democrats thruout the country are becoming more thoroly convinced every day that the Democratic party, controled by Mr. Roosevelt and his New Dealers, is no longer the party that represents their beliefs.

THE CITY BIDS ON SOME STREET CARS.

Attorneys for the "L" and surface lines are studying a proposal by the city to buy the principal units in Chicago's local transportation system for $94,000,000.

Certainly the city's proposal does not flow from any overwhelming demand for public ownership. If motives are sought, city hall pique at the refusal of the financially solvent surface lines to swallow the financially unstable elevated lines, under a unification plan, is probably as good an explanation as any. Fortunately, however, approval by the state Supreme court and in a referendum election is necessary to any public purchase of the lines, so the danger of Chicago taxpayers awaking some morning to find themselves in the street car business is not imminent.

As we have remarked in the past, the benefits to the car riders from corporate unification of the local transportation companies have been overstressed. The public is already getting all the physical benefits it could derive from unification. It is getting them, not thru any effort of the city administration or action of Federal Judge Igoe, before whom the companies are in receivership and bankruptcy, but thru the recent order of Gov. Green's commerce commission, expanding the universal transfer system.

Thus unification can hardly be accounted a benefit worth spending public funds to achieve. What the car riders want, in addition to transfers, is better service. The city will be buying physically broken down properties, if the purchase goes thru. It has been suggested that the purchase price of 94 millions would require an actual cash outlay of only 56½ millions, since the street car companies have 27½ millions in their renewal and depreciation funds that would go to the city as purchaser.

This is rather frenzied finance. The 27½ millions are merely a none too liberal reserve set aside to put the present street car lines back in good operating shape. The fund, even if it were not dissipated, would provide none of the extensions that are needed. It would do nothing for the "L" lines, which are in far worse physical shape than the street car system, and need large and expensive extensions to serve the public adequately. The purchase price would be only the beginning of the city's investment.

Mayor Kelly has asserted that he can sell revenue certificates, bonds secured only by the earnings of the proposed municipal system, and not an obligation upon taxpayers, at 3½ per cent interest. The present earnings of the surface lines are in the neighborhood of 6 millions a year, which would service about 170 millions in securities at the 3½ per cent rate, without allowing anything for debt retirement. The present earnings are the result of boom conditions. It is doubtful that the city would find anywhere near 170 millions of capital without paying more than 3½ per cent.

There would be other gains—book credits—from municipal operation, but the book credits would be book debits against the homeowners and other taxpayers of the city. The local transportation companies pay about 4½ millions a year in general taxes, license fees, and franchise compensation. Under public ownership they would be freed of these charges, but the deficit would have to be made up by the rest of the taxpayers. Local transportation can be as cheap as you like under municipal operation. New York still has the 5 cent fare, but it costs 13 cents to carry every subway rider. The taxpayers put up the other 8 cents.

[Memphis Commercial Appeal.]

Figures vouched for by the Washington Star show the war department's Pentagon building has already cost $74,185,954, or more than twice the original estimate of $35,000,000. The thing isn't all set yet, either, for additional expenditures on access roads are in prospect. The Pentagon building is that appallingly large and gangling structure into which Western Union messenger boys go and from which they eventually emerge as lieutenant colonels, but that isn't the point. Rarely does any government project stay anywhere within shouting distance of its estimated cost, and the fact is a good one to remember at a time when New Deal burocrats are busier than so many bird dogs figuring out the probable cost of post-war public works. No burocrat was ever any too particular about spending tax money, and the New Deal ones are what the mountaineer called "plumb disregardless."

THE MAPS OF MUSCOVY.

The able and learned chief of TRIBUNE staff cartographers, William H. Wisner, informs this column, after a prolonged study of the maps of Russia from the autocracy of Nicholas II. to the dictatorship of Joseph I., that the names of many towns and cities have been changed several times. There was the anti-German period of change in World War I., when St. Petersburg became Petrograd. Came the revolution, and Petrograd was converted into Leningrad, while the names of various other inhabited places lost their czarist identifications and became memorials to old school bolshevik patriots. Came the period of anti-Trotskyism and the ideological purges, when unwelcome proletarian idols went down into the prison basements to see the light of day no more, and the towns that had briefly borne their names were given others. The whole subject is a mapmaker's delirium, but Mr. Wisner, as he shuffles the names, gets ironic amusement out of his duties.

* * *

The Russians seem to have lost patience with personal names in geography in the third or Stalinesque epidemic of rewriting. They have been playing safe by free use of the prefix "Kras," which Mr. Wisner says means "Red." The party color, they seem to believe, is more permanent than the party line.

* * *

It is no news, of course, that they have changed good old Nijni Novgorod, the ancient market town romanticized in pre-soviet fiction, into Gorky in honor of a writer who never measured up to Tolstoy's ankle. Elsewhere they have been weak in the recognition of literature on railway station signs. Their fondness for socialistic emotions, however, should inspire them to name a town in honor of an American writer whose works they have greatly admired. We would love to see a small dot on a new map of Russia labeled Jacklondongrad.

THE UNANSWERABLE.

"And what are the things that matter most?"
I asked of the low and high,
Of lords, and ladies, and peasant lads,
And a thousand passers-by.

I asked philosophers, men of state,
And sweepers against the curbs;
But all I got was a mess of talk—
Adjectives, nouns, and verbs.

Then I asked myself, and the foolish phrase
Flew up to a star in the sky.
What the answer is I shall never know—
And always I'll wonder why.

How to Forget Form 1040.

If you have been wrestling with the problems of income tax and, baffled by its complexities, feel like rushing to the nearest zoo to contemplate the monkeys and restore your equanimity, do not add physical to mental fatigue. Stay where you are, close your eyes, and blot out the nightmare. Then let yourself be borne in imagination far above the earth, beyond the stratosphere into the outer regions of space, to the far-off moon.

There, seated on a great mountain peak, look out into the night. Then will be revealed an awe-inspiring spectacle more brilliant than you have ever seen. Scintillating in illimitable space and shining with a brilliance undimmed by any atmospheric veil, the stars fill the vault of heaven in a pageant of transcendent glory. Spellbound, your eyes take in the vast and wondrous sight and then, with breath-taking suddenness, you will be conscious of IT—an orb four times the size of the moon, hanging in space and softly glowing like a fairy lantern, larger and more beautiful than any of the rest. A soft tinge of color, greenish-blue, suffuses it and as it slowly rotates great continents and seas are clearly marked.

It is the earth.

There is no sound of lamentation, no smoke of war, nor sign of fretting. It is a world of peace and beauty, swinging along its ordered way thru eternities of time and space.

And as you look down upon it a great peace comes over you. Somehow the question of income tax doesn't torment and worry you any more. In fact, it doesn't seem to matter very much at all.

FASCINATING COUNTRY.

O, Russia is a stalwart land
Where generals trim, without compunction,
The panzers off the foe, and take
A vital railway junction!

It is the land where guns announce,
In mighty salvos filled with unction,
The taking of a hundred towns—
And of some railway junction!

It once was famed for caviar,
The tidbit served at classy functions,
But now its fame securely rests
Upon its railway junctions!

A Serious Military Problem.

Mud is a serious problem of war. A letter from the Italian front tells this story of its horrors:

Camping in an especially muddy locale, American soldiers appropriated a stack of straw from a near-by farmyard to serve as flooring for their tents.

Later a gesticulating farmer appeared and demanded some kind of payment. Unable to make themselves understood, one of the soldiers took a scrap of paper from his pocket and carefully wrote something on it. This satisfied the complainant, but next day he was back looking for il capitano.

The paper had been inscribed, "Good for 100 rides on the merry-go-round at Coney Island."

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A WINTER VISITOR—INFLUENZA.

WARS bring disease. This fact has been observed from time immemorial. With better sanitation, and the means we now possess for preventing diphtheria, smallpox, typhoid, etc., the spread of these disorders seems unlikely.

We cannot state with equal certainty, however, that influenza will not again strike all peoples on this earth. Whatever the cause [probably a virus], a virulent malady—if like that of 1918—can travel with the speed of the wind. After reaching our Atlantic shores, it required but a month or two to cross the country.

Whether the disease will occur in epidemic form or not, it is well to know how to combat it. Symptoms appear shortly after the respiratory passages have become infected. Only a day or two will elapse before the victim will exhibit sneezing, nasal discharge, tearing, loss of appetite, pains in the muscles, and prostration. Actual destruction of cells within the airways takes place and this process may extend downward into the trachea, the bronchi, and the lungs. The rapidity with which it can advance indicates that the patient should go to bed immediately.

Many a life was saved in the pandemic of 25 years ago by keeping the sufferer warm, supplying plenty of fluids, and providing skilled nursing. By and large, the best assistant which the grim reaper had was the one who said: "I am tough. I am strong. I feel grippy but I am not going to let this thing get me down." When collapse came, it was overwhelming.

The chances are that most communities will be visited more than once during this season with mild seizures of this same general nature. Perhaps cases of pneumonia will be decreased, with fewer fatalities. If so, this may tend to breed carelessness.

Primarily, there are two things to do—make certain that resistance is maintained at a high level, with good food and plenty of rest. We can forego burning the candle at both ends, particularly when this type of infection is rife. Unless duty calls, we can avoid contact with those suffering from nasal, bronchial, or lung illnesses. In this connection we may recall that droplets of spray from sneezers and coughers can carry contaminated material several feet from the source.

Should a wave of moderately severe colds and grippe sweep the land, we need not assume that the whole matter will end. The autumn of 1918 witnessed every stage of the ailment, with tens of thousands of cases. Early in 1919 we encountered a second surge, whereupon many were afflicted who had hitherto escaped. Those two years were the worst that our nation has experienced and the toll of life was great.

We can be careful also about the preparation of food and provide for thoro cleansing of tableware. Those who are obliged to sneeze and cough may use disposable paper tissues. It is doubtful that a vaccine will be available this year, altho work toward that goal is proceeding apace. Unfortunately, when immunity is established, it lasts only a short interval. With our present light episodes, one attack may be followed by another within a few weeks or months.

NOT A PART OF MALARIA.

F. R. writes: My son returned from overseas with malaria. Whatever he eats, he throws up. Is this serious?

REPLY.

Recovery will depend upon the integrity of the alimentary tract. Some of the remedies which he has been taking may be responsible. Vomiting is rarely complained of between attacks of malaria. It may be well to check the digestive apparatus thoroly, particularly the liver.

VITAMIN C.

A. L. writes: I have been taking 600 units daily of ascorbic acid to help an allergy I am disturbed by. Is this harmful?

REPLY.

Probably not, altho the quantity is large. The average dose for adults [when it is needed] is from 50 to 100 milligrams.

ALLERGY AND HEREDITY.

S. E. writes: Is bronchial asthma inherited?

REPLY.

No, altho a tendency to allergy or sensitivity may be transmitted from parents to their offspring.

A PLUGGED VEIN.

Mrs. L. P. writes: Why does milkleg develop after childbirth?

REPLY.

As a rule, an infection is responsible. A clot forms in an important vein. This causes the tissues to swell.

War Time Laundry.

A north shore housewife received as a gift an unusually pretty colored luncheon cloth with matching napkins. She made the mistake of sending the cloth and two napkins to the laundry, from which they were returned miserably faded. She stormed into the laundry, terribly upset, and got into line at the complaint desk. When her turn arrived, the clerk informed her seriously, "if you'll bring in the remaining napkins, madam, we'll be glad to fade them to match the rest of your set."

Of Movies and Grass.

Letter from a naval lieutenant in the Pacific:

"All this is slightly different from navy public relations at 333 North Michigan avenue, where I spent a year in 'special events.' No special event ever beat this one, not even the floor show between halves at Arch Ward's all star games. One event was extra special today [Jan. 15], when a ship near us got its Christmas mail—50 bags of it. They looked a little silly unwrapping gay packages on a man-o'-war in the tropics, but we did envy them. Ours hasn't come yet. Another event that can happen any day is another 'grass roots' movement. From all the grass skirts I've seen this would be a wonderful place for one.

"The other night at dinner a young ensign fresh aboard from Notre Dame and eager to get hep to the navy talk breezed into the wardroom and said to the captain, 'there will be movies on the fantail tonight, sir. Get going! and the No. 3 gun will be reserved for officers!' Just as he was about to be hung to the yard arm, some one hastened to explain that the title of the movie was 'Get Going' and that the No. 3 gun was the reserved seating section for officers.

"Movies on board, under a tropical moon, even tho shown back among the garbage and the depth charges, are one of the big factors in keeping morale high out here. And they aren't too old, either, no older than those that finally escape from the loop. We even find we can keep our library up without ever touching the beach, just by swapping with other ships in passing.

"And speaking of movies, it's the first question you get asked when you arrive at almost any one of these harbors. Blinkers begin signaling as soon as you are within visual range of all the smaller ships: 'Will you show movies tonight?' You then arrange to entertain so many extras, only to find that you have three times that many on board when the movie starts.

"We have a supply officer from Minnesota who worries himself bald about our having enough to eat. We managed to take the lead in the table talks one night last week and were deep in a thoro discussion of Betty Grable when without any warning the supply man came out with: 'But they were all out of canned turkey and chicken!' The war does strange things to some people."

A SOLDIER COMES HOME.

Bushnell, Ill., Jan. 27.—While most of our boys are fighting and dying on fields in foreign lands, we at home are hearing from our executive branch in our nation's capital of the proposals for efficient mustering out pay. It all sounds good, but I have one fine young lad in my home at this time who has been in the army two years and at the time he took his physical test at the port of embarkation he was termed unfit to cross with his company and was promised an honorable discharge, which he received after four months of bickering by puppet agencies set up by Washington officials.

He was discharged about a week ago at Camp Ellis, and told after receiving no pay from the army for four months, that it would be at least six months before he could expect pay. After landing in Bushnell he went to work at our meat packing plant and came to my door and asked for a sleeping room, saying he would have no money until he worked long enough for his pay check.

I took him in, gave him a bed, and told him I didn't care if he never paid for it, that after two years of service in the army, he had earned an American bed in any one's home.

Right now some of you are signing petitions for delegates to the convention. On April 11 you will vote for these delegates. Be sure that these delegates represent your wishes and that you know just where they stand on the issues you consider vital.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—In driving about the city's streets, I have noticed that there is some evidence of vehicles having collided with the abutments or approaches to the various safety islands which are placed parallel to car tracks in loading zones.

In order to rectify this condition to some extent, may I suggest that a white line be painted on the street for a distance of possibly 100 feet immediately preceding the approach to the safety zone. Thus, if a vehicle attempts to pass another, the driver will be forewarned of his proximity to the safety island and can avoid colliding with it.

TO COMBAT INFLATION.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—We are fighting the greatest war in our history and as a result of the war we have the fear of inflation.

Inflation can be controled in two ways: by increasing taxation, which has a great deal of opposition, because when there is no limit to taxation it creates tyranny; and by the conversion of war economy to peace economy wherever possible.

Conversion is not being followed to any extent, altho it is the best way out. If we increase the production of consumers' goods, we help to avoid inflation. Many defense plants are being closed down. Why not convert them to the manufacture of consumers' goods?

We have a war to win and also a war on the home front in the form of inflation. These should be nonpartisan questions and solved as such.

Centralia, Ill., Jan. 27.—Those Illinois "sportsmen" who rounded up and killed five foxes in Cook, Will, Lake, and Du Page counties should be proud of themselves. It's half-witted people like these brave "sportsmen" who destroyed our wild pigeons, our buffalo, and other game. This man, Anthony Maggio, who is said to encourage these hunts and is described as a conservation inspector, is a sorry example for an official who is supposed to protect our wild game instead of helping herd them into fence corners to be clubbed to death by "sportsmen."

BUDGET DOUBLED BY COMMISSION IN WAR ON CRIME

Gifts Increase; Larger Staff Possible.

An increase in financial contributions received from Chicago business men will permit the Chicago Crime commission to employ a larger staff of investigators to be assigned as observers in courts and public offices, Guy E. Reed, president, reported yesterday. The commission is assured of an income which will double its budget for three years.

"The commission is going to make it easier for public servants to do their duty—more dangerous to betray the public trust," Reed, who is vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, said in describing a 1944 program in the commission's journal. The commission is starting on its 26th year.

State's Atty. Courtney, Commissioner Allman, and citizens in business, labor, and government helped the commission in its work last year, Reed said.

"Invisible Government."

"Those who would pervert democracy for their own ends and exploit every human weakness for profit have built an invisible subterranean government which victimizes society and all its component parts, whether it be government and its servants, business, or organized labor," he said.

"We have been augmenting the staff, and 1944 should witness broader coverage of the courts, an excellent investigational staff and the unfolding of a broad coöperative program that will be more than encouraging."

Chicago has a great destiny to meet after the war, and safety from crime and disfranchisement is essential to the fulfilment of this destiny, he added.

"No Substitute for Good Police."

"It is not enough to go on clamoring for more police, and passing from one burst of public indignation to another," he said. "More police and more public funds are no substitute for good police."

Rudolph W. Dvorak, assistant operating director of the crime commission, who has specialized in investigating irregularities in the branches of the Municipal court, reported a need for continued observation of activities in these courts.

He cited the substitution of a young Negro for a 70 year old white defendant in the branch at 48th street and Wabash avenue as one of the irregularities investigated and exposed in detail by the commission last year.

BODY OF WOMAN IN NIGHT ATTIRE FOUND IN SHRUBS

Hempstead, N. Y., Jan. 30 [Special].—Discovery of the body of a 35 year old woman in a clump of shrubs 200 feet from her home in Malverne, N. Y., this morning confronted Nassau county police with a puzzle.

The woman was Mrs. Josephine Smith, who was identified by her husband, Ralph Smith, ex-prize fighter, and former sparring mate for Jack Dempsey.

The woman, clad in a nightgown, was lying beneath a glassed-in porch. The window above her was shattered, and the glass lay strewn around the spot where she lay. Medical Examiner Abram Freireich reported that the woman "died of a broken neck, probably caused by being thrown thru the window."

Smith told detectives he had arrived home at 4 a. m., and that while he was making ready for bed, his wife opened the front door and went out. He said he made no effort to stop her. He was held for further questioning.

MOLDERS HOLD UP STRIKE WEEK TO LET WLB ACT

Members of the Molders and Foundry Workers' union [AFL], who had voted to strike tomorrow in 50 Chicago foundries, agreed at a meeting in their hall at 2750 Madison street yesterday to give the regional war labor board one more week in which to rule on their petition for a wage increase. The WLB committee appointed to hear the petition will make its recommendation to the full board Thursday. The foundry workers are asking a general increase of 6 cents an hour, to which the foundry owners have agreed. William Mugan, secretary of the Chicago local, said if the WLB does not approve the increase this week, the union will meet again Sunday to authorize the strike.

Firecracker Bombs

Sgt. Marshall Pidgeon (left) and Policemen Herbert Demke and Barney Komie with "bombs" found on northwest side.

Finding of six display cannon firecrackers, containing fuses and quantities of powder which appeared to be an explosive, scattered near the home of Nicholas Williams at 3335 Octavia avenue, furnished the Jefferson Park district with a bomb scare yesterday.

Williams found a package of three of the big red crackers, measuring about four inches in diameter and 14 inches long, on the parkway in front of his home. The other firecrackers were scattered in his back yard.

Sgt. Marshall Pidgeon of the police bomb squad and Policemen Herbert Demke and Barney Komie of the Jefferson Park station, gingerly removed the firecrackers to the crime detection laboratory for examination. Pidgeon said the firecrackers would not have damaged anything. He believed they might have been stolen from a fireworks factory.

Later, the bomb squad hurried to Touhy and Western avenues to investigate an explosion. The squad found a bonfire burning in a prairie into which neighborhood boys are presumed to have tossed a quantity of homemade powder to prove a chemical set experiment.

Is it Patriotic to Plan for Peace?

[A McGRAW-HILL EDIPICTORIAL]

IS it the patriotic duty of the owners and managers of our industries to plan now for the kind of business activity that will make jobs after the war?

Some people say "There's a war to be won. Let's concentrate all of our attention on that."

Obviously, they are right, so far as any slackening of our production pace is concerned. But there is more to a war than production. War results in peace, and we will not like the peace we get if our factories are idle.

Idle factories lead straight to totalitarianism because, when millions of people are jobless and hungry, government becomes the employer.

We don't like totalitarianism. If we want to keep our democratic way of doing things, we MUST plan business so that men can make a living without losing their independence

That's why we think it IS the patriotic duty of owners and managers of industry to look ahead. And when they see something which they think will handicap them in keeping their factories busy, we believe they should call public attention to it.

One of the problems that businessmen are thinking about now is the way in which war contracts will be ended. That's a problem that vitally concerns every American, because slow, inequitable or inefficient contract termination will mean bankrupt plants and unemployment.

To help clarify some of the points involved in war contract termination, the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company is publishing an editorial by James H. McGraw, Jr., in all of its publications. This editorial is highlighted in the following Edipictorial:

1 DEMOBILIZATION cannot be a separate process from reconversion. They must be united. The termination of contracts is a demobilization task.

2 SOON WAR DEMANDS will fall off sufficiently to permit the renewal of essential civilian production. Then we will have to act with great speed if we are to avoid large-scale unemployment.

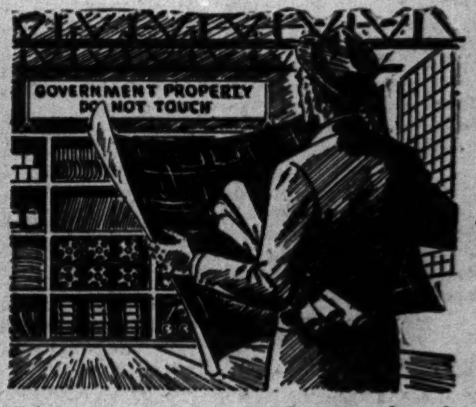
3 SINCE THE PROCESS of terminating contracts is to be geared to meeting continued demands for munitions and also expediting reconversion, the Armed Services must think not only in terms of munitions, but also consider themselves as part of the "planning team" that will insure the industrial health of our country.

4 GOVERNMENT AGENCIES, obviously, must exercise great care in protecting the interest of the public against excessive payments; but long-delayed negotiations will retard the initiation of civilian production, and must be avoided.

5 THE GREATEST LOSSES in the reconversion period will result from delays in getting peacetime production under way. Unemployment will cost the public far more than the money spent in liberal settlements.

6 POLICIES MUST BE FIRMLY ESTABLISHED now whereby the manufacturers, especially subcontractors and suppliers, will receive substantial settlements immediately upon contract termination in order that ample funds may be available for reconverting plants and accumulating necessary inventories of peacetime goods.

7 WHILE PROMPT FINANCIAL SETTLEMENTS of contracts and the rapid clearance of war material from plants are of immediate and great significance, in many cases the removal of equipment and raw materials will be even more important than money payments.



GOVERNMENT PROPERTY DO NOT TOUCH

8 PLANTS THAT ARE EQUIPPED largely with special wartime tools and machines and that are fully stocked with materials, components, and finished military products will not be able to undertake any substantial degree of conversion until this machinery and this inventory are removed.

9 ENORMOUS STOCKS of machines, food and materials will be in government hands when the war ends. Problem: How to dispose of these things without destroying millions of jobs? . . . It calls for careful planning starting now!

10 AS WAR DEMANDS DECLINE, civilian output will be resumed. This will not be a smooth process, due to varying strategic needs for munitions. Industry will need the closest cooperation of the Armed Services to avoid confusion.

11 CIVILIAN PRODUCTION must be started going again in the same way it was discontinued—by definite allocation of materials. Otherwise we will have hopeless confusion.

12 INDUSTRY ADVISORY COMMITTEES were established to cooperate with governmental agencies in the great task of conversion to a full war economy. These committees are the means through which industry has the opportunity to play a major role in the solution of the problems of reconversion.

13 IF WE KNOW IN ADVANCE the probable curtailment in some war requirements we will be in a better position to estimate the timing and the quantities of raw materials, the number of workers, and the industrial facilities which will be available for peacetime purposes.

14 THIS JOB of changing America's industrial pattern from war to peace, speedily and efficiently, is one which will tax the talents and knowledge of the ablest business men of the country. This task must be attacked with the same energy and determination that characterized our country in the period of mobilization for war.

"I AM hopeful that the procurement agencies, appreciating the great importance of definite planning now for facilitating reconversion, will take full cognizance of the policies necessary for giving every assistance to initiating peacetime production.

I have not attempted to raise all the important policy questions in terminating contracts, nor do I propose specific solutions for each major problem. Rather it has been my purpose to indicate the complexities of the task which faces us and to urge that intelligent and sound plans be developed now while there is time. By so doing, we can avoid the dislocations and economic disorder which otherwise might characterize the reconversion period. The better we are prepared, the more rapid will be the resumption of full employment and good business after the war is won."

HERE ARE ITEMS YOU CAN DEDUCT IN FIGURING TAX

List Includes Gifts and Other Levies.

[This is the eleventh of a series of articles on the individual income tax.]

Previous articles of this series have discussed the tax savings arising from personal exemptions, credit for dependents, and the exclusion of certain items from gross income subject to tax. A fourth type of tax saving is found in the form of "allowable deductions."

The list of allowable deductions includes contributions to church, charitable and educational organizations; bad debts, interest paid, union dues, state sales taxes paid, certain federal excise taxes paid, losses from fire, accident, or theft; medical expenses to a limited extent, business losses, losses from the sale or exchange of property, depreciation on business property, and many other items.

Practically no deductions are allowed in computing the victory tax except business expenses or expenses incurred in the production of income.

Since many limitations are placed on allowable deductions, the taxpayer should read carefully the instructions accompanying the 1040 form.

The taxpayer using the short form, 1040A, is not permitted to take any deductions, but an average allowance in each income bracket is taken into account in the tax table on this form.

Every one pays taxes, but deductions may be made on form 1040 only by the persons on whom the taxes are, by law, imposed. The purchaser of cigarets, for example, pays a price that covers a federal tax, but cannot claim a deduction since the tax is imposed on the manufacturer. The federal tax on theater and other admissions, on the other hand, is imposed by law directly on the purchaser and is separately stated in the quoted admission price. Therefore admission taxes are deductible.

Among the more common taxes which are deductible are real estate and personal property taxes, state sales taxes, state gasoline taxes [3 cents a gallon in Illinois], state income taxes, state and city vehicle licenses, and federal taxes on club dues, telephone and telegraph services, safe deposit boxes, transportation of persons and property, documents, and use of automobiles and boats.

Not deductible by the consumer are federal excise taxes on automobiles, tires, gasoline, lubricating oils, mechanical refrigerators, electrical energy, liquor, tobacco, playing cards, perfumes, toilet preparations, radios, jewelry, and furs.

Assessments for sidewalks, streets, sewerage, and similar local improvements which enhance the value of the property are not deductible except as to amounts allocable to maintenance or interest charges.

Charges for governmental services, such as the so-called water tax and taxes or fees for various services, are not deductible unless they are incurred in a trade or business.

Federal income tax payments made during the year are not deductible, of course. Neither are social security taxes paid by the wage earner.

[A list of more than 100 taxes, showing by whom the taxes are deductible, will be sent to readers by the Investors' Guide of The Chicago Tribune upon request if the request is accompanied by a stamped, addressed return envelope.]

The state sales tax is the largest single tax deduction available to most persons, but it would be an unreasonably burdensome task to keep an accurate record of each sales tax payment. Recognizing this, collectors of internal revenue in Illinois have unofficially accepted a table of "reasonable" average deductions for the Illinois 2 per cent retailers' occupational tax. The deductions range from about 1 per cent to 1½ per cent of total income, depending upon the size of the income and the taxpayer's family status.

The table follows:

Income—	Single.	Married.	Married, 1 child.	Married, 2 children.
$1,000	$ 8	*	*	*
1,500	12	$17	$22	$25
2,000	16	23	30	33
2,500	20	26	34	38
3,000	24	32	41	46
3,500	28	37	48	54
4,000	37	43	55	61
4,500	42	48	62	69
5,000	51	54	69	77
5,500	56	59	76	84
6,000	61	64	83	92

*Not subject to income tax.

Deductible taxes are entered as item 13 on page 1 of the return form 1040 and must be listed individually in schedule F. Taxes on rental property owned, and taxes paid in connection with a trade or business would not be entered in item 13 but in schedules C[1] and C[2], respectively.

[Tomorrow's article will be on medical expenses.]

Cripple, Church Bound, Killed at 'L' Station

Samuel Whitten, 35 years old, 2736 Harrison street, was fatally injured yesterday when he fell or jumped in front of a westbound Chicago, Aurora and Elgin train on the elevated tracks at the California avenue and Van Buren street station. He died shortly after firemen extricated him from beneath the train. His father, Louis, told police that his son, partly crippled by paralysis, had left home to go to church.

NATION DONATES SERUM TO SAVE CHICAGO CHILD

Others Will Benefit from Drug.

Thru the combined help of a half dozen agencies, George Uhlig, 5 years old, Northbrook, appeared yesterday on his way to recovery from spinal meningitis and Chicago had become the clearing house for a rare serum that was being dispatched to child victims in other parts of the country.

The boy, the son of George J. Uhlig, research engineer for the Victor Adding Machine company, was stricken last Monday with meningitis of the influenza type and was taken to Evanston hospital. Physicians found he was in need of 12 vials of anti-H influenza type B rabbit serum and their search of hospitals and supply houses here produced only five.

Nation-Wide Search Made.

A nation-wide search was started by A. C. Buehler of Barrington, chairman of the Victor company. He telephoned branches of his company thruout the nation and enlisted the aid of the American Legion, United Airlines, Railway Express agency, Illinois state health department, the army and the navy.

Long distance telephone calls disclosed that there were four other children in different parts of the country suffering from the same disease and also in need of the serum.

Shipments of the serum, found chiefly in hospitals and laboratories along the New England coast, began arriving by United Airlines planes. Two types of the serum arrived, one made by rabbit blood and another from horse blood. The latter is usable, but is not as effective in children as the rabbit type, it was said.

Other Children Helped.

The stocks were divided on the basis of urgency. A boy in Detroit died before the serum could be sent to him. The conditions of Arlene Shaw, 15 months, and Charles Helm, 6, in the Children's hospital, San Francisco, were critical and 16 vials were sent to them immediately by air. Later supplies were sent to a boy in New Orleans whose needs were not as urgent.

While word was awaited on the outcome of the other children's illnesses, the Uhlig boy was in a "steadily improving condition" yesterday. In addition to the serum, George also is receiving sulfadiazine treatment.

HELP IS GIVEN TO FAMILY OF 5 FIRE VICTIMS

As funeral plans were being completed yesterday for the five Porter children who perished early Saturday when fire destroyed their home in Stone Park, financial aid was on the way to their grief stricken parents, who are destitute.

Frank Roach, former police chief of Stone Park, led other members of the suburb's American Legion post in asking residents to aid the family. Members of a south side church which the Porters attended before moving to Stone Park made a donation, and Mrs. Benjamin Goldstein of the Drake hotel announced that she would send them a check for $100.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Porter, and their one son, Ronald, 8 years old, who escaped death, have moved to the home of Mrs. Porter's foster brother, M. H. Dreyer, 3410 West 60th place.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. today in a chapel at 1810 Lake street, Melrose Park, and burial will be in Oakridge cemetery.

POLICE RECORD OF SLAIN MAN'S PAL DISCLOSED

William Spotnik, 43 years old, who was captured by Glen Ellyn police Friday night during an attempted burglary, has a police record dating to 1923, the detective bureau disclosed yesterday. His record was requested by the Glen Ellyn police department.

Spotnik, who lives at 5122 Sunnyside avenue, was seized after a companion was shot and killed by Policeman Clark Scurrah in the rear of a coal and lumber office at 524 Duane street in the suburb. The slain burglar was Michael Cerese, 28, who escaped from the county jail Jan. 12 with two other prisoners.

His record disclosed that Spotnik was fined $10 and costs on a larceny charge on May 22, 1923; was sentenced to 60 days in the Bridewell and fined $25 for larceny on Sept. 10, 1923; sentenced to Joliet penitentiary for robbery on Aug. 8, 1924, and paroled in December, 1927; sentenced again to Joliet for robbery on Feb. 1, 1929, and paroled March 4, 1941, and finally was discharged from parole on Jan. 13, 1943.

A third burglar eluded the Glen Ellyn policeman and is believed to be William Pisano, 25, who broke jail with Cerese. Spotnik has been charged with burglary and is being held in the Du Page county jail in Wheaton.

Joan S. Hixon Is Engaged to Ensign Martin

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT HIXON of Lake Forest today are announcing the engagement of their youngest daughter, Joan Strean, to Ensign Joseph Thomas Martin, son of Mrs. Charles Elliot Wheeler of Easton, Md. The Hixons did not give a party to announce their daughter's engagement, as Ensign Martin is stationed in Oregon, nor will the family's many friends have the pleasure of witnessing her marriage, for it is to take place on Feb. 12 in North Bend, Ore.

Pretty Miss Hixon's elder sisters, Mrs. Maurice F. Hanson of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Milton Wilson Jr., both were married in Lake Forest. Ensign Martin, a naval flyer, has many friends here, as his step-father is a brother of Seymour Wheeler, and it was thru Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler that Miss Hixon and Ensign Martin met some years ago.

Miss Hixon attended Chatham Hall and was graduated from Miss Porter's school at Farmington, Conn. She was introduced to society during the Christmas holidays in 1942. Ensign Martin attended the Woodberry Forest school and Northwestern university before enlisting in the naval air corps. He spent a few weeks at the Glenview naval air station recently to complete his pilot's training. As he expects to have a few months longer in this country it was decided to have the wedding at once.

Other Engagements.

Mrs. Charles Gilbert Comstock Jr. of Pasadena, Cal., formerly of Chicago, announces the engagement of her daughter, Nancy Kendall, to Master Sgt. Peter Rutter of the army, son of William McMurtrie Rutter of Newton, N. J., and the late Mrs. Rutter, formerly of Winnetka. Miss Comstock, granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. A. Spencer of Chicago, attended Scripps college and now is employed by the army air forces at the California Institute of Technology.

Mr. Rutter is a graduate of Phillips Exeter academy and of Princeton university and was on the staff of the war production board in Washington, D. C., before enlisting. Miss Comstock's great-grandfather was Albert Tuttle Spencer, whose home stood on the site of the old Rush street bridge. Mr. Rutter's grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Ford, lived in Highland Park.

Mrs. William M. Heywood of Fall River, Mass., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Ruth, to Capt. William Kelley Jr. of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kelley of Evanston. Miss Heywood is a graduate of Bradford Junior college, Northwestern university, and of the Katherine Gibbs school in Boston.

Capt. Kelley attended the Northwestern university school of commerce and recently returned from overseas duty in the Caribbean area. He is stationed at Camp Edwards, Mass.

Today's Events.

Two parties today will mark the 10th anniversary celebration of the founding of the North Shore center of the Infant Welfare society. Mrs. Robert H. Sykes will entertain at luncheon at her home in Golf for the 1943 and 1944 boards of the center. An open meeting and tea in the afternoon will be held in the home of Mrs. John Mulder of Sauganash.

The first meeting of the group was held 10 years ago in the home of the late Mrs. Willard Jaques, who was then active in the Edgewater center of the society. Mrs. Jaques' daughter, Mrs. Anson Clough of Montclair, N. J., was elected president of the new group, which took the name of the Junior Edgewater center. Later, however, when many members moved to the north shore, the organization took its present name.

Here and There.

Dr. and Mrs. Dan U. Cameron have been enjoying a visit with their son, Lt. Gordon Cameron, who arrived at home unexpectedly last week by plane from his navy post in the South Pacific. Lt. Cameron, who served on the aircraft carrier Wasp, is reporting to an east coast port tomorrow. His wife is accompanying him east.

Another of the Camerons' four sons, Barton, has been promoted to major and sent to the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kas. His wife, the former Marion Louise Klink, has returned to Evanston to share an apartment with her sister, Mrs. Edmund L. McGibbon [Catherine Klink], whose husband, Lt. McGibbon, is on sea duty with the navy. The Barton Camerons had been living at Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

The Paul W. Olivers' home in Winnetka is enlivened these days by the presence of young Betsy, who was born on Nov. 14. The baby who has a two and one-half year old brother, Paul Jr., has the formal name of Elisabeth Grace after her mother and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes.

Rachmaninoff Well Played in Wrong Setting

Concert by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, Dimitri Mitropoulos conducting; Artur Rubinstein, pianist. Presented by the History and Enjoyment of Music series at the Civic Opera house Sunday afternoon, Jan. 30, 1944. The program:

Prelude in C sharp minor, Opus 3, No. 2 ....Rachmaninoff
[Orchestrated by Sir Henry Wood.]
Concerto for Piano, No. 2, C minor ....Rachmaninoff
Symphony No. 2, E minor..Rachmaninoff

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Just two things, no doubt in part concomitant, were lacking in yesterday afternoon's Rachmaninoff concert played at the Civic Opera house by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, with Dimitri Mitropoulos conducting and Artur Rubinstein as soloist. They were the infinite variety and splendor of tone denied an orchestra caught in the trap of the opera house's curtain muffled stage, and the spine chilling sense of excitement that pulls you to edge of your chair when a Rachmaninoff performance is emotionally as well as technically magnetic.

Perhaps this seems to exploit the flaws at the expense of an exceptionally interesting concert, but a wart always seems more tragic on the nose of a beautiful woman than a homely one. I kept wanting to hear that concert against the resonant sounding board of a concert stage, to discover the true weight and quality of the orchestra tone, and to know if that tone had the mounting magnificence to rise like a tidal wave against the ramparts of the Second Symphony, and to play the tonal game of ebb, flow, and inundation that is the Second Piano Concerto.

As things were, the concerto was everything but electrifying, in the sense that we have known it at Orchestra hall with two that are gone, Rachmaninoff himself, and Frederick Stock, and one who returns this week, Vladimir Horowitz. Mr. Rubinstein, himself a titan, took its measure calmly, competently, with the technical ease of the virtuoso and the beauty of a tone scarcely rivaled in our time. But where his encored nocturne was the essence of Chopin, the concerto had the languor, the brooding romanticism, and much of the eloquence, but not the smoldering splendor to blaze into unforgettable Rachmaninoff.

No doubt much of that splendor was generated, only to be banked by the ashes of poor acoustics. Even so, the performance was fascinating because of the soloist and the conductor. Some conductors look better than they sound, but Mr. Mitropoulos sounds better than he looks. A cross between Svengali and a lackadaisical jitterbug to the eye, he is a technical expert to the ear, and the Minneapolis orchestra now bears his unmistakable imprint.

Conducting without score, save for the photograph in his mind's accurate eye, his way with the concerto was acute, alert, and resilient. He saw the E minor symphony not in a long line of unfolding climax, but as a series of vivid episodes, the first a Pandora's box of seething disquiet from which he lifted the lid, the adagio a notable exhibition of an orchestra under control, the finale a crackling signature of Mitropoulos, if not completely of Rachmaninoff. I would have given a good deal to hear that performance in a hall where tone could have challenged technique. Put it down as a provocative concert, once it jumped the hurdle of Wood's matter of fact transcription of the apparently deathless prelude that haunted its composer a long lifetime.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Virginia MacLean, driver of an interstate truck for the last 14 months. She replaced her husband, who is in the Seabees.

Veterans of the trucking industry were frankly apprehensive the first time Mrs. Virginia MacLean, 29 years old, took the wheel of an interstate truck.

Their fears were in vain, because Mrs. MacLean, who has the Chicago to Indianapolis, Ind., run for the Keeshin company, 221 West Roosevelt road, has been an outstandingly efficient driver during the 14 months she has held the job.

Mrs. MacLean didn't approach her war time occupation without some knowledge. Her husband, John, now with the Seabees in the South Pacific, taught her virtually everything about his trucking job while he was still a civilian. He had been a trucker for 14 years, and she used to accompany him on his runs, which were mostly cattle hauls.

Mrs. MacLean, who has exceptionally good health and is of husky stature, is believed to be the only woman interstate truck driver in the Chicago area. She never has met any others, and neither have her fellow truckers, from whom she receives friendship, respect, and plenty of constructive suggestions.

She has driven more than 86,000 miles for the Keeshin company, principally on night runs. The Chicago to Indianapolis run requires seven to eight hours.

Mrs. MacLean likes her work, but intends to doff slacks and sweaters in favor of house aprons when the war is over and her husband returns. Her daughter, Kay, 9 years old, always has wanted to be a nurse, but mother's job fascinates her, and now she talks of being a "lady trucker." Mrs. MacLean says Kay will make a better nurse.

The war department considers service men's kit bags the most important items the Red Cross production corps can make at the present time, so headquarters at 529 South Wabash avenue has sent out a call for workers to help make 50,000 more.

Men leaving ports of embarkation and those already in battle areas get the bags, which contain sewing kits, candy, razor blades, soap, books, playing cards, stationery, cigarets, and other items.

Before the bags can be filled, they must be sewed, and hundreds of Chicago women's hands are needed to sew seams, put in drawstrings, and fill the kits.

If you know the address of your neighborhood production unit, offer your sewing services there. If not, call Wabash 7850, extension 266, for information. The 50,000 bags must be completed during February.

The 10,000 members of 19 units of the women's district grand lodge of B'nai B'rith have set a quota of $3,000,000 in war bond sales, to be met by Feb. 15, the end of the fourth war loan drive.

Thru personal contacts, special events, and booths, the women already have sold more than half the quota, and expect to exceed the full amount by the time more than 1,000 of their representatives gather for a rally at the Standard club on Feb. 15.

Mrs. Irene Jacobson and Mrs. Minnie Berman, members of the executive board of the women's district lodge, have charge of the campaign. The bond sales tallies will be turned in for the purchase of a fleet of ambulance planes. Mrs. Charles Solovitch is president of the women's district.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Bolero Suits Lead Spring Style Parade

BY REA SEEGER.

Advance scouting reports list the crisp, new bolero suits at the very top. Sliver-slim skirts, topped with a dashing, brief bolero, again are capturing the susceptible shopper's cash outlay for a first suit for spring. These models are particularly ideal for January, February, and March under a fur-jacket cape, or long coat.

Nothing spells spring like the tonic of a slim, light toned suit, and nothing in all the suit collections hits the spot like a bolero duet. The in-between season collections feature some smoothies in yarn dyed gray, in snappy checks, in chalk stripe woolens, and in distinctive combinations of plain with patterned fabrics.

Boleros have a definite air of distinction. They hug the ribs, end just where the belt begins or a little above, and nearly all models are cut with the new cavalier sleeves—sleeves that are long and fitted and cuffed to turn back to show the blouse cuffs, or slit up the sides to expose frills. Many of the boleros boast new pointed edges in front, long points that extend well down over the belt of the skirt. The old time boleros were problem jackets. They either fitted too loosely, or were too short or too long. Those of 1944 have more finesse, hug the figure lines, and really achieve a smooth, unbroken silhouette with the skirt.

Navy blue is in the lead, dark skirts and checked or striped combinations are in second position, and two color models, like dark skirt with scarlet, gold, or green boleros, also are grand possibilities for spring. Bolero jackets have rakishly slanted pockets, precise revers, dramatic lapels, and beautifully fitted collars — fine details that combine to make them perfect models—and there's a particular model for each individual. The next few weeks will mark the peak showing of navy blues frosted with the white of blouses, sleeveless weskits, or gleaming satin weskits.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Hymn to Monday Morning.

Consider the joys of a Sunday—
Enough to fill a tome—
The joys of cooking and scrubbing,
A restful Sunday at home.

The broiler to clean and the icebox,
The bathroom and kitchen floor,
O, lovely, peaceful Sunday
[Ten shirts to iron or more.]

Consider the burns and the bruises
[At home I'm on dangerous ground]
How good to get back Monday morning
With the office crowd around! D.

Housekeeping Score.

The Owens-Illinois Can company has found the answer to vexatious housekeeping problems in the plant and the office. The answer is a weekly award—but wait—not what you might think! None of this ribbons on the chest business with pretty speeches and everybody bowing right and left.

The company has two cardboard figures, one Dapper Dan and the other Sloppy Joe. Dapper Dan is a handsome guy with cutaway coat, striped trousers, and flower in the button hole. The department with the best housekeeping score finds itself host to the imposing figure of Dapper Dan—who carries a sign to the effect that he likes this department. Not so happy is the department which wins the Sloppy Joe figure because of a poor housekeeping score that week. He's the kind of joe who has a hole in the top of his Derby hat, whose pants are baggy, whose sweater is droopy and hip-length.

A smart idea. And it should be duly recorded that last week the shipping department won Dapper Dan and the office, to its chagrin, won Sloppy Joe.

It's Libel.

Wah . . . WAH! The name on my white collar girl contribution was not Babe Bowers but—BABS BOWERS.

Additions.

I'd like to add my comment to suggestions for white collar girl commuters: Don't sit on three-fourths of the seat just because you get on farther south than I did and possibly paid a penny more for your ticket. Let's be ladies!"

CHATHAM COMMUTER.

I wish Anne Smith had included in her rules for commuting the suggestion not to turn seats backward, put your feet up on them [yes I've seen women do this] and expect other people to walk three blocks thru a train to find a seat or sit on one where you've just wiped your shoes.

THE REDHEAD.

Here's Your Chance.

The course in court reporting, designed to be of help to stenographers using any system of shorthand, begins this coming Thursday at Jones Commercial Evening school, 607 Plymouth court. Radar-Radio Drive Nets 2,000 Women Workers in Week

More than 2,000 women have been recruited to work in radar-radio manufacturing plants in Chicago during the last week of the radar-radio industries' campaign to step up production in 52 plants in the Chicago area, it was reported yesterday by Charles M. Hofman, executive of the Belmont Radio corporation and chairman of the emergency committee of the industries.

"Chicago women of all ages have answered the call to arms and coveralls," he declared. "We must add more than 10,000 women to our production lines within the next six weeks. Lack of help is retarding greatly expanded production plans."

As a spur in the recruiting campaign, the industries group has planned to observe radar-radio week in Chicago from Feb. 7 to Feb. 13. Highlight of the week will be a rally Friday evening, Feb. 11, in Medinah temple. A radar-radio queen of Chicago will be selected from candidates representing the various plants.

Maybe Smooth Girls Need a Checkup, Too

BY MAUREEN DALY.

(Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.)

On the SOLID side

Gals are always singing a long, low song of the blues about the faults and failings of the fellows they date. It seems they are either too young or too old. They are either too shy or too bold. They are either too short or too tall. Their socks are too bright, their line is too cold, they don't call up for dates on time, or they are always looking sideways at some dateable redhead. Always, so the gals say, these chaps are off the beam in some way.

Maybe it's because they invariably show up for a date in a plaid shirt and baggy corduroys, laugh too loudly in the movies, forget to walk on the right side of the sidewalk, say "guess who" on the telephone, or spend the evening dancing with other girls while their own date sits by looking glum. Maybe they never think to tell their honeychile when she looks lovely of an evening, croon in her ear while they dance, forget birthdays and "the day we met," and insist on talking about all the smooth dolls they've known and liked from eighth grade on up.

So just to put a stop to this idle chatter here's a letter from the opposition, a chap with a suggestion for dolls who consider themselves all covered with dazzle dust and desirability:

"Ask any group of fellows and you'll find that 90 per cent of them would like to have a paper doll to call their own—but just try to find one who isn't unreasonably stuck up and hard to get along with. Who do women think they are, goddesses? They are always complaining, but there are many more things that they do that irritate men than vice versa. What about the long wait before a date, the much idle talk and gossip, the gold diggers, etc. . . . yes, these girls had better check up. Men have their faults, too, but when it comes to pleasing and being pleased, who is to be more charming and pleasing?

"Check up, chicks!"

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. Jan. 30.—David Selznick's friends say celluloid courses thru his veins instead of blood. He eats, sleeps, and breathes motion pictures. He's sure cooking with an idea this time. He tells me "Tales of Passion and Romance" will be his big picture this year. It's based on famous short stories. He'll use his whole stableful of stars—Jennifer Jones, Ingrid Bergman, Dorothy McGuire, Shirley Temple, Joe Cotten, Alan Marshall, and Gregory Peck. . . . Each story is a complete picture, and each is made by a famous director. The whole thing will run from three to three and a half hours. Vivien Leigh will do an episode in England with Alexander Korda. Alfred Hitchcock will direct one, William Dieterle another.

Now You Know the Why of It.

The reason Mary Pickford didn't make a film about juvenile delinquency is that it couldn't be released outside this country. In other countries such a film could be picked up and used as axis propaganda. R. K. O. knew that, but went right ahead. . . . Mervyn Leroy has already made some plans for his future. He'll direct "The Robe" for Frank Ross. . . . Will Warners remember how good Francis Lederer was in "Autumn Crocus" when they put it on the screen? . . . You'd be surprised how many people left town when they heard J. Edgar Hoover was headed this way. Betting here is five to one Charlie Chaplin won't be indicted and three to one that Charles Carr won't run for district attorney. . . . What's this? Tim Durant's daughter is telling friends that her father married a Mexican girl, which put Minna Wallis out of the running. Could that mean he and Katherine Dunham are already wed?

And About Time, Too.

Joan Harrison's "The Phantom Lady" has turned out so well she has offers from all over. She has an original story which she'd like to produce independently. In the meantime, Universal's talking a new contract with her. She thinks it might be a good plan to do an all-woman picture with Phyllis Laughton directing, Joan producing. Being a feminist at heart, I think it's a good idea. It would show our men what our gals can do. Believe me, they can do plenty. . . . Arthur Hornblow's friends are betting he and Bubbles Schinazi are wed. Nobody has named the date or year. . . . Sarah Ann McCabe is heading west in June. . . . Tommy Dorsey's supposed to be paying Drummer Gene Krupa $1,000 a week. It's just a little more than half that.

The House That Music Built.

Dinah Shore has bought the house in Beverly Hills that music built. Oscar Hammerstein II. built it. Later on, Alice Faye and Tony Martin lived there. About six months ago Nacio Herb Brown bought it, did it over and moved in. Now it's having its face lifted again, this time by Fannie Brice, and it's about ready to house Dinah and George Montgomery. . . . Jennifer Jones is rooting for Ingrid Bergman. She says it will be an outrage if Ingrid doesn't get the Academy award this year. D. Selznick is neutral—he doesn't care which of his players gets it. . . . Don Loper's a busy fellow. When not squiring Judy Garland, he's with Lela Rogers. . . . Hope it's true that Noel Coward's writing a new play for Gertrude Lawrence. If it is, I'm wishing he'll be in it with her. I love Gertrude, but Noel's the only one I know who can keep her from overacting. . . . Noah Beery Jr., who was so good in "Gung Ho," got a new contract and male lead in "Allergic to Love" at Universal. . . . Malada Mladova, ballet dancer, tested for 20th, but before they could sign her, she was rushed back to New York for "Allah Be Praised" with Ned Sparks. . . . Who says press agents can't keep secrets. Lou Smith just retired from M-G-M and his wife, quietly divorced four weeks ago. . . . Kitty Carlisle's pals can't figure her out. She was months getting a Warner contract. The minute she signed, off she went to New York. She's still there, and that was months ago.

Many Facets to Mickey.

Mickey Rooney's an amazing fellow. Sometimes I think he's more interested in his career as song writer than as Rooney the actor. With delight he told me Ginny Simms would introduce his song "I've Had Too Much to Drink," and Benny Fields will do "For All I Care," both written with Sidney Miller. . . . Since Ben Hecht is writing Sarah Bernhardt's story, he's being kidded on the title of his new book, "I Hate Actors." . . . Mary Boland is on the mend and "out of the woods." . . . Tut, tut. Benny Goodman joined in on some talk about a famous Hollywood femme. "I hear she's definitely lost face of late." "Yes," reflected Benny, "but on her it's an improvement."

STATEMENTS REVIEWED.

Vyner said drily.

"Yes, sir, they are in a painful predicament, especially if one of them pushed him over that parapet."

"Bless my soul, Vyner—that's a dreadful thing to say!"

"Yes, sir, but that's what it looks like. To get back to those statements—if you'll just run your eye over them you'll see Mr. Mark Paradine and Mr. Elliot Wray have got the least to say about it—cut it down all they could. Mr. Richard, he talked quite a lot—rather fell over himself trying to explain it away. And Mr. Pearson—well, very discreet."

"Hold on, let's get these people straight. Mark and Richard are the nephews. Which is the tall, dark one?"

"Mark, sir."

"That's it. Some one was telling me about him. Wanted to go into the air force, but they wouldn't let him. In the research department—can't be spared. The other one—my girls know him. Lively—bit of a ladies' man. By way of making up to Lydia Pennington."

"Yes, sir."

"Elliot Wray, he's the fellow who married the adopted daughter—what's her name—Phyllida. Marriage broke up before the honeymoon was over. Shouldn't be surprised if somebody had meddled. Grace Paradine for choice."

Col. Bostock picked up Albert Pearson's statement, glanced it thru, and said:

"Who's Pearson? How does he come into it?"

"Secretary, sir. Some kind of a cousin as well. Lives in."

"Pearson, Pearson—yes, of course, he'd be Milly Paradine's son. Big, gawky girl. Some kind of a second cousin. Used to come and stay with the Paradines. Ran away with the jeweler's son—made a lot of talk. Got a job—died some years later. Wait a bit, I'm getting there. Bless my soul, now who was it was talking about Milly Paradine not so long ago? Might have been Mrs. Horton. That's who it must have been! And she was saying what a good son that young Pearson had been—praiseworthy fellow—worked hard, ambitious—the virtuout apprentice—took night classes—languages, typing, shorthand, all that kind of thing."

"You see, sir," said Vyner, "Pearson did see Mr. Paradine after he went to his study. He was in the drawing room with the others until first the Ambrose party and then the two Mr. Paradines went away. He then went back to the drawing room, said goodnight, and proceeded to the study to see if his services were required by Mr. Paradine. He found the butler there setting out a tray of drinks. Lane corroborates this. Pearson says he was told he wouldn't be needed, but that Mr. Paradine called him back as he was following the butler out of the room and suggested a slight alteration to a letter which he had dictated earlier in the evening. He says Mr. Paradine didn't keep him a moment, and that he was about to go up to his room, when it struck him that he was, as he puts it, in a very delicate position. He says he stood there thinking about this when he saw Mr. Elliot Wray come thru the baize door from the hall.

"He saw Mr. Wray go into the study and made up his mind to wait. After no more than about two minutes Mr. Wray came out again. Pearson then addressed him, telling him frankly that he would like to be in his company till after midnight. After which they went up to Mr. Wray's room, which is just around the passage from Pearson's, and stayed there until after half past eleven, when they went down to the dining room and had a drink. When they got back again it was 8 minutes past 12. Mr. Wray went and had a bath, and Pearson went to bed. Their statements corroborate each other, and this puts them both out of court as far as the murder is concerned, because Mr. Paradine was dead by 12 o'clock."

"You make it sound like a detective novel. Who says it was 8 minutes past 12 when Wray and Pearson got upstairs?'

"Both of them, sir."

"Very noticing of them. Fellows don't generally look at the clock every time they go into a room."

"Well, sir, it was New Year's eve. And Pearson makes no bones about it, he wanted to cover himself over this confessing business—says right out he's the one the family would be glad to pick on if they could."

"What's he mean—the confession, or the murder?"

Vyner said, "Both," rather dryly.

"All right, let's get on," Col. Bostock said. "Let's see—they went off early too, didn't they?"

"Yes, sir—at about a quarter to ten."

"Together?"

"Yes, sir—on bicycles. Mr. Mark, he's got a service flat in that new block, Birleton mansions, just as you get into the town. He says he stopped there. Mr. Richard lodges farther on, in Lennox street. Both of them say they left without seeing Mr. Paradine. Mr. Richard says he didn't go out again. Mr. Mark says he went for a walk. As a matter of fact the policeman on duty on the bridge says he saw him. It was bright moonlight up to the time the rain came on. He says Mr. Mark passed him, going back in the direction of the River house. He puts the time at 10:20. I've only just had that, so I've not had the opportunity of putting it to Mr. Mark. Well, that's as far as I've got with the nephews. Then there's Mr. and Mrs. Wray. He's here on business. He and his wife were occupying rooms on different sides of the house."

"Marriage broke up. Pity. Surprised he should be staying there. Awkward—very."

"Well, sir, he says urgent business cropped up, and Mr. Paradine insisted."

"Yes, yes—he's in with Cadogan. Bomb sights—all that kind of thing. Very able fellow, I'm told."

"Yes, sir. He wasn't giving much away—just said he looked in on Mr. Paradine to say good night. And that corroborates Pearson. But Mrs. Wray—well, sir, she admits to having had a conversation of some length with Mr. Paradine after the others had gone to bed."

"What?"

"I don't think there's anything in it, sir. In point of fact, she needn't have told me. I just asked her as a matter of form whether she'd seen him again, and she said at once that she had—says she went up to her room and got thinking of something she wanted to discuss with Mr. Paradine, so she went down and had a talk with him. She says it lasted about 20 minutes. It was a very friendly talk, and it had nothing to do with what had been said at dinner."

Thru the Looking Glass

Hands, being more useful than ever these war days, are taking something of a shellacking on the home front. Women are crying for skin balms and cuticle softeners as they have never pleaded before.

Which is one reason why we've been working furiously lately with a nail product. It's not new, and it always was good, but we suspect that recently it has been even further improved by some research and some change in formula. It's a whale of a good lubricant that softens stubborn cuticle almost instantly and is wonderfully helpful in shaping it by gentle persuasion. No cutting, which is the root of more nail troubles than most women dream of.

This quite remarkable oily liquid—fragrant and pink—isn't at all expensive. With each generous bottle comes a little fountain stick, a most unusual gadget which is filled from the large bottle and thru which the stuff is filtered in the right quantities via a specially shaped cap that is perfect for working around the nail base. You simply press the tip down on the nail and the stuff is released a drop at a time—and a drop is all you need to make the most stubborn, scraggly cuticle as pliable as tissue paper. The shaping is then the simplest matter in the world. And, as you undoubtedly know, it's shaping of the cuticle that is nine-tenths of nail beauty. Of nail comfort too, since ragged cuticle is responsible for the snags that tear and sometimes get infected.

You'll like this for your finger nails because three applications or so a week will keep cuticle subdued beautifully. You'll like it for the toenails too. It grooms them perfectly and makes it quite possible to shape them as nicely as you do your fingernails. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Men and women have definite ideas about coffee. Here is a man who insists on having his morning brew boiled. This would shock the sensitive palate of a gourmet, who holds that under no circumstances should coffee be boiled. There is a woman who likes a weak brew which many persons would hold in contempt as having no character.

Here's a man who doesn't care how his coffee is made, just so it's strong, there's one who insists on clarity above other qualities. So it goes. Scattered among these coffee addicts is a bewildered legion of brides and cooks who may know how they like their coffee, but don't know just how to make it so that it tastes right.

For them the coffee making rules are made.

Rules for Making Standard Brew of Coffee.

1. Whatever method of coffee making you use, measure coffee and water accurately. Two level tablespoons of coffee, and a full measuring cup of water are needed for each person. If you make coffee for four, ½ cup [8 tablespoons] coffee, 1 quart water are the measurements to use. There will be sufficient coffee for slight refills since the capacity of a coffee cup is less than a full 8 ounce measure.

2. Coffee making equipment must be thoroly clean. It should be scrubbed well after each use, scalded before re-use. It's a good idea to boil soda water in most coffee makers occasionally to remove fine particles of stale coffee which may have collected over a period of time, and which result in a bitter brew. Aluminum coffee makers are an exception—soda attacks the metal and will pit it.

3. Use coffee while it is fresh. For most families the pound package is more satisfactory than a larger amount. Coffee loses aroma and flavor upon exposure to air. When a large jar of coffee is opened and much of it remains unused at the end of a week, a noticeable deterioration occurs.

4. Use a coffee maker suited to the amount of coffee you make. Poor coffee often is the result of making two cups in a coffee maker designed to make six. Make at least two-thirds of the capacity of the coffee maker.

Most so-called coffee experts agree that coffee made in a drip or vacuum type of utensil is superior to that which is brewed in coffee pot or percolated. These types of coffee maker require a finer grind of coffee, as a rule.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

The declarer in today's hand lost a redoubled slam contract by trying to guard against a condition which, if it existed, could not be overcome.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	1 spade
2 hearts	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
Pass	Double	Redouble

The bidding was good with the exception of East's double.

West opened the club queen. At the second trick declarer led the heart nine from dummy, his obvious thought being to play East, for his double, for the king-queen-ten of hearts. The ace captured the queen, but after that declarer could do no better than cash the diamond ace and throw East in with the heart king. Since East had an easy exit in clubs, and since the diamond jack did not drop, declarer could not avoid the loss of a spade trick, and his contract.

Considering the total lack of entries in dummy after the club was opened, declarer's idea of guarding against the king-queen-ten of trumps in East's hand was something less than logical. It just couldn't be done! That being so, declarer should have played in such a way as to make the contract if he was lucky enough to find East with only two trumps. At the second trick he should have cashed the other high club, discarding a spade, and then ruffed dummy's last club. After that he should have cashed the trump ace, diamond ace, and spade ace in rapid succession. Now the second trump lead would put East in and leave him without a safe exit. A diamond return would give declarer three more diamond tricks, and a club return would give him a ruff and a discard, thus making two more diamond tricks sufficient.

Lonely Wife Should Find Work to Do

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Recently returned from nearly two years' service as chaplain with the army air transport command, Maj. John S. Garrenton reports that one of the main causes for worry among fighting men overseas is unfaithful wives and sweethearts.

"My own personal opinion is that any service man's wife who is playing around here with another man is about the lowest thing I know. And about the next lowest thing I know is the man who plays around with her."

It isn't because wives and sweethearts aren't familiar with the hideous lives of the men overseas. Any movie house they enter today is a school of education in this respect. Unfaithful wives must suffer a terrible recoil seeing battle pictures, or else they are without consciences, in which event, we doubt if anything can be done. But there may be some witless women who manage to convince themselves that "it is the way he wants me to do" who would be wise to make a right about face. There's a right and a wrong way of life and the chaplain has the words for the wrong way.

Wives argue they're lonely, and no doubt many of them are, lonelier than they ever were. But what is loneliness, continued loneliness? It's a self-centeredness, inertia, the will to victimize oneself. There are plenty of work, study, and personal advancement opportunities for women. They may not cure loneliness, but they remove the sharp edges of it.

Three Stoves and Bedding Sought by Sally

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Mrs. T. is a widow, 57 years old, who is unemployable because of a severe injury sustained last March, when she was struck by an automobile. The stove which she has is not sufficient to heat her living quarters adequately, and she has asked our assistance in locating a hot blast stove. The address is on the near northwest side of the city.

Altho Mrs. L. is 66 years old, she is employed. However, her salary is sufficient only for necessities, such as rent and food. The heating unit in her home is worn beyond repair. The house is cold, and because of her age, she feels it intensely. If any reader can provide a hard coal heater, she would be grateful for it. This address is on the south side.

Mrs. H. is also in need of a heating stove. Because her husband is in service, she and her two children have been living with relatives. However, it is now necessary that she find a home of her own. She has located suitable quarters, but it will be necessary for her to obtain a heating stove before they can be occupied. This address is also on the south side.

Mrs. D. is very much in need of bedding and a sewing machine. There are four children, and due to illness, her husband is unable to work steadily. The mother has a part time job, but her income is not sufficient to provide for all their needs. She will be grateful if our readers can provide either of the above mentioned items.

Older Women Most Capable as Nursemaids

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

If you could know of as many mothers as I do who are compelled to be the sole support of a child, or are forced to go out to work because the husband's earnings or allowance from army or navy are not enough to support them, you would wish with me that the world had many, many women like David Copperfield's Peggoty or Robert Louis Stevenson's nurse, Alison Cunningham, in it. I know there are many women of middle age, or near it, who love children and who would fit into such homes as I have been describing, and are sorely needed there.

Many young nursemaids are kind, clever, and responsible, and fit well into homes where the children need, as Robert Louis Stevenson put it in speaking of his beloved nurse, "a second mother." But not all young girls fill this bill. Many absentee mothers have found this out and one of them writes:

"I have no work now, but when I have, I engage middle aged, married women who have been mothers, and I find it works out better. Children need the warm, human touch which spells all the difference between being cared for by someone who knows the value of a smile, a loving pat, friendliness, understanding, and hominess, and the lack of it."

I hear a great deal from working mothers who tell of behavior troubles with their children. Not always, but often, these arise because they have to be away and because the person engaged to care for them is inexperienced with children. Here, then, is a working mother's suggestion.

And let me add one of my own. If you have to choose between some one who has a pleasant personality, likes and knows children, and is a good, simple cook, and one who doesn't do any of these things but keeps an immaculate house and can make fancy canapes and gorgeous desserts and serves with swank, choose the former.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The largest crowd of the National Hockey league season—18,261, most of them hysterical after the first period—last night saw the Blackhawks play one of their best games to chill off the rampant Detroit Red Wings, 3 to 2.

The game was a perfect masterpiece for a dyed-in-the-wool Chicago addict, not the least of the grand items being the fact that Johnny Gottselig, one of the fine old gents of all professional sport, scored the winning goal of the tricky sort with which he used to thrill Chicago pioneers yars and yars ago.

Hawks in 4th Place.

The sterling triumph stood on its own as a splendid exposition of throbbing hockey. But it had the further virtue of putting the Hawks in fourth place—in the Stanley cup playoff circle, if they can stay there. They passed Boston which had paced them by three and a half games little more than a week ago.

The three goals made by old man Mush March, Doug Bentley, who never skated so fast in his life, and Gottselig were devasting to Detroit statistics.

The Wings, favored by an unprecedented string of luck in the matter of Canadian army discharges, had played nine games without a defeat and only one tie. Their miracle discovery, Goalie Connie [Asbestos Kid] Dion, hadn't lost in seven games since he was picked up after an army discharge.

Wings Take 2-0 Lead.

The Detroiters, cocky as their cocky manager, started out to be most bruising. When they made two goals in the first period to the Hawks' none, a few pessimists figured, perhaps, they were out to tie or beat their record game of just a week earlier—the one in which they cracked a half dozen marks by beating New York, 15 to 0.

But as you can figure if you're semi-smart at arithmetic, the Hawks stopped the terrible men cold after those two first period goals by Adam Brown and Mud Bruneteau.

The second period was half over before the Chicagoans broke thru offensively. March, George Allen, and Earl Seibert precipitated some action on the Detroit end of the rink, but it didn't seem to be amounting to much until March took a baseball swing and batted the puck past chunky Mr. Dion. The time of this goal was 11:42 of the second period. You could tell the Wings figured they still had plenty of time to score a bushel of goals.

Bentley Ties Score.

The Wings became a bit less smug when Bentley took the puck from Virgil Johnson not far from the Hawk cage and outskated the whole Detroit team down the left boards—a sprint which paid off with a slanting shot which was simply too hot, even for the Asbestos Kid. The time was 1:13 of the third period. The score was 2-all.

At 5:51 Gottselig got home the payoff tally on a perfect team maneuver, Cully Dahlstrom and Fido Purpur assisting. Purpur took the puck into the Detroit defense zone and passed to Dahlstrom who started for Dion in center ice. Enroute, he shoved to Gottselig. The latter, in complete control of the puck, zigzagged it until he had Dion perturbed, then shot the rubber to the exact spot Dion figured he wouldn't shoot it. The fans "dern" near went crazy.

Hawks Daze Wings.

The game still had more than 14 minutes to go. In those 14 minutes plus the Hawks played desperately, skillfully, and rapidly. The proud Wings didn't know what to do. They settled on taking Dion out of the nets during the last minutes.

The crowd lifted the attendance total for five games in Chicago stadium in January to 81,174.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

TONIGHT marks the start of the 17th annual Chicago Golden Gloves tournament. . . . By the time the competition ends on March 10 in the Chicago Stadium the greatest amateur fighters from Los Angeles, New Orleans, and all the principal cities of the middle west will have been determined. . . . The third year of a world war finds boxing's greatest event at its competitive peak. . . . Never before has the event included contestants from areas so widely separated as California, Florida, Louisiana, Minnesota, and Ohio. . . . The continued popularity of Golden Gloves is one of the thrilling sports narratives of our day. . . . Seventeen years is a long time for any promotional event to endure. . . . Seventeen years is merely a fleeting moment in eternity, but it's more than half a generation as men measure their lives. . . . Tens of thousands of young fellows from every walk of life have come under the influence of Golden Gloves in those 17 years. . . . Some have stepped out of the tournament to fame and wealth in professional ranks. . . . Many, we hope, are better prepared to serve their country at world battle fronts because of their participation in an event demanding such violent physical contact. . . . Seventeen prosperous, depressing, stormy, chaotic years have rolled by since the first Golden Gloves preliminaries were held on the west side. . . . Thruout that span the event has been conducted scrupulously along the lines for which it was intended—a competition for amateurs who enjoy the shock of a punch on the nose or a wallop in the body.

CARL SOMDAL

Golden Gloves has appealed to all types—the rich boy, the poor boy, the street urchin wise beyond his years, and the mother's boy, naive and inexperienced, each out to prove to himself and the world that he possessed the makings of a champion. . . . They must have stood as convincing evidence to the Germans and Japs that courage and the will to win had not become extinct in the land of the free and the home of the brave. . . . So tonight in St. Sabina's gymnasium on the south side scores of young men again will fight it out in a manner uniquely American. . . . No matter the color of their skin, their manner of worship, the stock from which they sprang. . . . Here they will be judged by standards other than the accident of birth. . . . They will stand alone, bout after bout, night after night beneath the pitiless white lights, their only weapons courage, determination, two padded fists and their undying faith in the American dream.

A Guy Named Joe.

I've taken down that big map from the wall—
It made you seem so very far away,
I'd look at all those fright'ning miles and miles,
And then it seemed I simply couldn't say
The little things that I had planned to tell,
They'd never span such vastness in their flight;
So now the map is gone and I pretend
You're sitting right beside me here tonight.

This way, my bits of news don't seem so vain—
The new dress that I bought this afternoon—
And as I tried it on here's what I thought:
"Will Joe be seeing me in this dress soon?"
And when I buy a hat it's just the same—
"Would Joe like this or would he laugh again?"
Remember all the fun you used to poke
At my poor hats? They surely were your game.

And then the radio a short while since
Began to play our tune—remember, Joe?
I had to go and turn the darned thing off,
It made me feel so—well, you ought to know.
Well, Joe, I guess that I'll close now,
I wish I had some funny thing to say,
But how can anything seem funny now
With that guy Joe so many miles away? Jazbo of Old Dubuque.

Montreal Deals New York 25th Defeat.

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—The Montreal Canadiens settled down to playing hockey after a furious first period scrap tonight and whipped the New York Rangers, 5 to 3. It was Montreal's 23d victory of the National Hockey league season and their fifth over the last place Rangers, who absorbed their 25th defeat.

While the Rangers couldn't win, they entertained a crowd of 15,437, with a livelier fight than most of the Friday night ring shows offer, plus a third period spurt that put them within striking distance of the league leaders.

Four Get Major Penalties.

When Ott Heller and Maurice Richard began swapping punches during the rough first session, Bob Dill and Mike McMahon immediately squared off while all the other players on the ice except Goalie Bill Durnan of Montreal rushed in. Most of them apparently were undecided whether to pry the fighters apart or to land a helping hand on someone's jaw, so only the four principal combatants drew major penalties.

The Canadiens led, 2 to 0, on goals by Phil Watson and Leo Lamoureux when the fight started and built up their margin to 5 to 1 early in the third period before the Rangers began a comeback that gave them two goals in 50 seconds.

Watson, De Marco Score Pair.

Phil Watson, a Ranger who is playing for Montreal this season because of his war job, shared scoring honors with Ab De Marco of New York. Each scored two goals. Lineups:

Harry Sparrow, veteran Chicago amateur boxer and now a member of the coast guard at the station at 91st street and the Calumet river, is one of the boys assigned to compete in the south side sectional Golden Gloves tournament which opens tonight in the St. Sabina gymnasium. Sparrow competed as a welterweight last year and was picked as a member of the Chicago squad for the intercity bouts with New York, tho he did not actually participate in that event.

Tokle Loses, Yet Wins in Ski Tourney

Sgt. Torger Tokle, Brooklyn's gift to the skiing world, finished second to Lt. Walter Bietila, the navy flyer from Corpus Christi, Tex., in yesterday's competition before 5,000 in Wrigley field but to Tokle goes the honors for the entire invitational meet sponsored by the Norge Ski club.

Bietila, one of the famous skiing brothers, two of whom participated in yesterday's finals, leaped 91 and 90 feet in his two jumps but his finer form while flying thru the air eclipsed the longer jumps made by the Camp Hale, Colo., sergeant.

Wilson Drops to 7th.

Tokle's leaps were 95 feet each but the American distance jumping champion rode on one ski after landing, thus costing him points which gave Lt. Bietila the edge, 143.4 to 143.

In the first half of the tournament held last Sunday, Tokle had Gene Wilson of Coleraine, Minn., as his chief competitor. Wilson today finished seventh among the class A jumpers with a 138.4 point total.

Ingvar Arnesen of Wisconsin Rapids, defending champion in the senior class, won his third consecutive title with two jumps of 85 feet and a point total of 135.9.

Sedivec Wins Class B.

Chuck Sedivec of the Norge club won the class B title with 84 and 85 foot leaps for a 139 point total. Pvt. 1st Class Joe Perrault of Camp Hale had better jumps than Sedivec but the latter's form was close to perfect as he soared thru the air. Perrault leaped 88 feet on both occasions.

Don Uceny, youngest skier in the tournament at 15 years old and representing the host club, won the class C [boys under 18] event with 82 and 85 foot jumps for a total of 129.7 points. Summaries:

CLASS A.

1. Lt. Walter Bietila, United States navy air corps, 143.4.
2. Sgt. Torger Tokle, Camp Hale, Colo., 143.0.
3. Howard Jansen, Norge Ski club, 141.3.

CLASS B.

1. Charles Sedivec, Norge Ski club, 139.0.
2. Pvt. 1st Class Joe Perrault, Camp Hale, Colo., 135.5.
3. Arnie Larson, Rockford, Ill., 134.6.

CLASS C.

1. Don Uceny, Norge Ski club, 129.7.
2. Bob Immens, Norge Ski club, 125.4.
3. Bob Uceny, Norge Ski club, 124.5.

SENIOR CLASS.

1. Ingvar Arnesen, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., 135.9.
2. George Gundersen, Norge Ski club, 129.6.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

This will be a big night for Chicago's boxing fans. They'll see the opening of another Golden Gloves tournament. For 17 years now they've been trekking to some sectional center to watch the youngsters of this city start out in quest of amateur boxing's highest honors. And they've never been let down for the lads have always put on a good show.

They'll deliver a good one again tonight in the St. Sabina gymnasium where the south side tournament will be launched in a shower of punches dealt by boxers in the novice and open divisions. Each year some good ones have come up for the first time in these sectional events. Leo Rodak, Max Marek, Altus Allen and other brilliant performers went into events such as this as unknowns. But they weren't unknown long once they had started their Golden Gloves campaigns.

Some Veterans Included.

Maybe there will not be a Rodak or a Marek among the youngsters who will fight tonight at St. Sabina—but that won't matter so much. They can be depended upon to show the spirit which has made Golden Gloves one of the greatest sport enterprises in the world.

The boys who will fight in the south sectional tournament tonight and tomorrow won't all be newcomers by any means. Veterans such as Harry Sparrow and Herb Mashino will perform. Both of these lads have gone far in previous Golden Gloves campaigns and it will take mighty sharp boxers to keep Mashino from taking the city bantamweight title and Sparrow from the welterweight supremacy.

Among the highly regarded new lads is Henry Rafacz, who won the middleweight novice championship in the C. Y. O. tournament last November. Henry, who raises hogs on his father's farm near Orland Park, will graduate to the open division for Golden Gloves competition.

North Siders Mark Time.

Eight novice and eight open division champions will emerge at the end of tomorrow night's fighting on the south side. Then the north sectional contenders will take up the struggle Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in Loyola gymnasium. When the best fighters in this section have proved themselves, they'll go on to clash with the south side winners for the city championship in Marigold Gardens on Feb. 14.

Every time an open division boxer whips over a punch during the bouts at St. Sabina and Loyola he'll be aiming at a place on the squad of eight which will represent Chicago in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 28, 29, and March 1. There the Chicago winners will be called upon to fight their way thru a vast field representing 28 other centers which draw boxers from 22 states.

It's Nation-wide Project.

The scope of Golden Gloves competition has been increased this season so as to bring the far western states into the struggle. A tournament will be held in Los Angeles which will attract fighters not only from California but also from Arizona and New Mexico. Thus, when the Intercity bouts are taken into the reckoning, Golden Gloves competition takes in the entire country from coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

During this week action will take place in seven of the out of town centers, the most significant fighting being scheduled for Cleveland.

PARSONS FACES JOHNNY ROZINA IN 8 ROUND BOUT

Danville Boxer Takes Simmons' Place.

Bill Parsons, Danville welterweight, has been substituted for Robert Simmons of Indianapolis as the opponent of Johnny Rozina of Milwaukee in tonight's eight round feature bout in Marigold Gardens. Simmons is suffering from a stomach ailment.

Roy Lewis, Chicagoland Golden Gloves featherweight champion three years ago, will face Eddie [Kid] Carson in a six round event on tomorrow's card. Three principals in preliminary matches will make their Chicago debut. These are Henry Malonek, Johnstown, Pa., welterweight, who is matched with Vic Soyko, and George Sapolick, middleweight stablemate of Malonek, and Erwin Zberchorski, Milwaukee, who is paired with Sapolick.

Those contests are set for four rounds, as is an opener between Al Evans, Indianapolis lightweight, and Sam Scully.

Senor Moctezuma will meet Flash Gordon in the windup bout of Promoter Fred Kohler's wrestling show this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. . . . Wladyslaw Talun and Pete Schu have been added to a mat card headed by Rudy Hoffman and Oscar Swanson in Marigold Gardens tomorrow. . . . Funeral services for Nick Ublasi, who fought as a lightweight as Nick Blaze 15 years ago, will be held this morning in Santa Maria Addolorata church. . . . Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery. . . . George [Putsy] Moore, George Gardner, Duke Barry, and Sammy Frager will attend the services as representatives of the Veteran Boxers' Association of Illinois, of which Nick was a member.

Women's City Tenpin Title to Goransons

The annual tournament of the Chicago Women's Bowling association ended on the alleys of the Congress recreation last night and the official results, immediately released by Secretary Betty Ramsey, reveal, as had been expected, that the Goranson's 20 Alleys team displaced the Logan Square Buicks in the championship picture.

The Goranson's winning total was 2,895.

Two other champions were simultaneously declared, Isabel Lloyd and Sara Hannblom taking over the doubles title of Catherine Fellmeth and Nina Van Camp and the latter also relinquishing her all-events crown to Carrie Enders.

A roll-off will be required to determine the new singles champion since both Charlotte Caswell and Laura Stellmacher shot 615 scratch totals, upon which figure the titles are awarded.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Therman Gibson, a handsome Michigander, who was born 27 years ago yesterday in Harbor Springs, last night celebrated his birthday by welding a neat 1,599 to take the lead in the $32,000 Petersen bowling classic at Barney Hochstadter's Archer-35th recreation. As the final squad of the day went to the line, young Gibson's work was embellished by the fact that four of the first five places in the top 10 were occupied by Wolverine tenpin marksmen.

The whole thing began back on the first squad of the opening day, Jan. 22, when Charley Boehm, a 28 year old war worker from Highland Park, Mich., fashioned a 1,564. Thru the seven crews who worked on the initial week-end, that aggregate withstood the thrusts of the entire field until last Saturday. Edgar Winchester, the handy little man from Philadelphia, jostled Master Boehm out of the lead with a 1,573. Edgar's tabulation endured only thru the following squad, in which Joe Norris, the captain of Detroit's national champion Stroh's cut himself up a 1,581.

Has 245 High Game.

None could touch that figure until Gibson stepped up last night, wearing the tan shirt of Detroit's E. & B. Brewery. Therman was a member of a 32 man squad which included Nelson Burton of St. Louis, co-holder of the national doubles championship. While Burton was collecting a 1,469, which included a 264 tie for high game of the tournament to date, Gibson started out with a not too stout opening four of 173, 185, 181, and 191. Then he reached the 200 mark in his fifth game. He tacked a smashing 245 onto that, was interrupted by a 198 in which he had to strike out, and then roared thru the last game with a birthday 226.

Gibson is no stranger to the tenpin elite, having been a competitor in two of the all-star tournaments conducted by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America. Furthermore, he maintains a plus 200 average in three leagues in Detroit, where he has been stationed the last two years as an arc welder in a war plant. Twelve years a searcher after strikes, Therman is married and has two daughters. He has competed in five Petersen classics, rolling a 1,600 last year, 110 pins back of the winner, Clare Edinger.

Kreiger Takes Third.

Following Gibson in the standings of the big show, which will continue daily thru Sunday night is Norris' 1,581. Winchester's Saturday 1,573 was shunted into fourth place by still another Michigan bowler, Herman Kreiger, a 38 year old postal worker from Benton Harbor. Herman jumped into third place in the standings with a 1,579.

Italians Deal Schwaben 2-1 Soccer Upset

BY OFFSIDE.

The Italians, with the aid of perfect weather and a great job of goal tending by Nello Menoni, yesterday scored one of the biggest soccer upsets in years when they defeated the Schwabens, 2 to 1, in a National Amateur cup game in Sparta stadium.

Assisted by a strong wind, the Italians managed to score after 14 minutes when Joe Riscossa booted one home from five yards. The Schwabens then took over the offensive but couldn't get past Menoni.

Nardi Scores on Rebound.

The Italians got their second score in the first half after some fine play by their forwards when Dave Cutty sent over from the right, Henry Ballagamba booted against the crossbar, and Dic Nardi headed the rebound into the net.

The Schwabens, unable to score before the half ended, came back and peppered the Italian goal, but Menoni's guarding continually shut them out. The Schwabens finally scored their goal after 13 minutes when Frank Janik booted over from the right about three feet off the ground and Max Jordon got his head to the ball and bounced it into the net.

The Hakoahs defeated the Slovaks, 4 to 2, in the opener. Lineups:

HOPPE, COCHRAN RESUME FEUD IN CHICAGO TODAY

Willie Hoppe, world three cushion billiard champion, and Welker Cochran, former champion, will return to Chicago today for a 600 point encore of their recent 2,150 point, cross-country nontitle match, which wound up in New York last Wednesday night. They will play the first Chicago block at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Bensinger's Recreation, 131 South Wabash avenue.

Hoppe and Cochran will play again tonight at 8:30 and follow the same daily schedule thru Saturday night, playing 50 point blocks at each session.

Hoppe won the cross-country match from Cochran, 2,150 to 1,941, winding up the tour with some of the best billiards of his career. For the 900 points played in Detroit and New York, Willie averaged 1.15 points an inning, while Welker averaged less than a point an inning. Willie had the high run of the match, an 11, which he scored twice. Cochran's best cluster was a 10.

K-9 SHEPHERD STEALS SHOW IN OBEDIENCE TRIAL

BY BOB BECKER.

Dennis, a burly German shepherd dog from the K-9 test section of the military police board of Fort Custer, Mich., practically stole the show yesterday when he won first place in the novice B class at the annual obedience trial sponsored by the North Shore Training club in the Midland hotel, 172 West Adams street.

Trained and handled by Pvt. Ralph Wagner, Spring Valley, Ill., Dennis topped 13 other trained dogs by getting a score of 97.3 out of a possible 100, just three-tenths of a point ahead of his nearest competitor.

First Chicago Trial.

Altho trained for 14 months by Wagner as an attack and sentry dog, this was Dennis' first appearance in a Chicago obedience trial. Both the dog and the handler were given special permission to come to Chicago for the event by Col. Leslie L. Connett, president, military police board of Fort Custer. An extra military touch was given to Dennis' triumph by the fact that Lt. Willy C. Necker, U. S. coast guard, from the K-9 reception and training center at Front Royal, Va., judged the competing canines in the novice B class.

A 4½ pound Yorkshire terrier and a wounded war dog from Africa also were very much in the spotlight at the trial as 94 trained dogs competed in six classes.

Yorkshire is Second.

Mendham Pixie, the 2 year old Yorkshire trained and owned by Evelyn Schweitzer, Northbrook, competed against dogs 10 times its size and obeyed commands so perfectly that it placed second in the class with a score of 245 out of a possible 250. Pixie is the only obedience trained Yorkshire in the middle west and one of the very few in the United States with a companion dog title.

Altho entered in one of the classes, Count, the wounded war dog, did not compete in the show. This Dobermann pinscher, owned by Dr. Clarence E. Folkers, 12754 South Maple street, Blue Island, recently returned from Africa after 13 months in the army, eight of which were in a battle zone. When the dog was wounded in its left hind foot it was given its medical discharge by the army. Summaries:

ORDER NEW CUT IN PRODUCTION OF ALUMINUM

Three More Lines Bring Total to 15.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—The war production board neared the end of its cutbacks in aluminum today with an order to shut down three more production lines.

The closure of three lines at Massena, N. Y., will bring the number of shutdowns to 15, all in the east and south where power for aluminum production is generated with scarce coal.

Together the curtailments mean a nation-wide drop in production of 14 per cent, Philip D. Wilson, director of the WPB aluminum division, said in an interview.

Expects Two More to Be Shut.

"There will still be a small surplus and we will have to do a little more cutting," Wilson said. "Perhaps two more lines will be shut down."

In view of the recent office of war information prediction that nearly 40 per cent of the country's output might be halted, Wilson's assurances were calculated to relieve apprehension in some areas where new plants are located.

Before the cutbacks, Wilson said, output was running more than 40 million pounds a month ahead of consumption. The situation was eased when the army decided to take up to 100 million pounds to replace steel in invasion landing mats.

Defends Canadian Deal.

The Massena, N. Y., cutback will take out of service two lines at the Aluminum company owned plant there and one line at the nearby government owned St. Lawrence plant.

Steadily mounting aircraft production is expected to make unnecessary any big new cuts later in the year, but Wilson said the Shipshaw plant of the Aluminum Company of Canada presents an unknown factor. The plant contributes about 600 million pounds a year under a contract which runs until mid-1945. The United States is taking the aluminum in repayment of a 67 million dollar outlay for construction of the plant. There is pressure from Oregon and Washington congressmen to halt the inflow of Canadian metal instead of reducing domestic output.

"That's a higher policy decision than I could make," Wilson said. "Personally I think we are lucky to have had the use of foreign power, labor, and bauxite [aluminum ore]. In any case the contract calls for six months notice on cancellation, which means no change for six months at least."

Industrial Uses Planned.

Officials meanwhile awaited industry's reaction to the WPB offer of limited quantities of aluminum for experimental work on post-war uses. C. B. Batman, chief of the aluminum distribution section, said one company is thinking of aluminum corn and beet pickers. Another has made "very preliminary" inquiries about an aluminum automobile. He said aluminum window frames and sashes would not need painting and would not streak buildings with rust.

He reported that the army recently found that it could replace two million pounds of lead foil with 200,000 pounds of aluminum foil in packing food.

For castings, Batman said, aluminum would save machining costs because it can be worked more easily than copper, brass, bronze, or malleable iron.

Job Planning for After War 'Short of Goal'

Widespread planning by both public and private agencies to expedite the change from war to peace production and to hold unemployment to a minimum was done in the last year, the American Society of Planning Officials reported yesterday. Altho much was accomplished by state and local governmental agencies, the society said "we are still far short of our goal of planned programs for post-war development."

Accelerated planning resulted from these estimates of post-war conditions:

Unemployed persons will number 6 to 8 million immediately after the war and some authorities predict severe unemployment before the war's close.

Labor Force 65 Million.

Total labor forces of the nation, including persons in military service was estimated at 65 million at the end of 1943, and total post-war employment at a maximum of 57 million. Service men are being returned to civilian life at the rate of 70,000 a month.

Without a national income of at least 150 billion dollars, a high level of employment probably will be impossible, the statement said. In 1929 gross national income reached 83 billion dollars and dropped to 42 billion in 1933. It was 77 billion in 1940, the last pre-war year.

"Private enterprise is expected to play an important role in keeping the national income at a high level thru expanded production," the society said. "But with all justifiable optimism for quick conversion of industry, at least temporary unemployment of serious proportions appears inevitable during the period between full production for war and full production for peace.

Migrations Important.

"Data given in a series of bureau of labor statistics reports describing the impact of the war on the economy of a number of cities and regions—on migration of war workers, their effect on and by the new environment—are important background to planning programs."

Thirty states adopted legislation organizing planning councils and activities during 1943, the society reported as evidence of their "serious interest." A large number of metropolitan planning agencies organized in the last year was one of the "most heartening demonstrations of increased understanding of the broad planning approach."

WORLD LINKING OF CURRENCIES URGED BY GROUP

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—Coöperation between major nations will be necessary to prevent serious economic difficulties in the post-war area, the monetary standards inquiry which concerns itself with economic problems, reported today.

World currencies are so interdependent that without coördination, "or at least governmental collaboration," economic difficulties of increasing severity appear likely in the post-war era, it said.

Dr. John Parke Young, monetary economist for the state department, said that following the first World war economic disintegration and distress were more serious in the post-war period than during the war itself. He urged an international survey of the world's currency structure to prevent the same condition when this war ends.

Merle Thorpe Is Elected Director of Cities Service

OPEN SPRING MARKET OF CLOTHING AND GIFT MERCHANDISE TODAY

Thousands of buyers are expected to attend the annual Chicago spring market which will open today, sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce. It follows the winter furniture market and the spring showing of men's and boys' clothing and furnishings, ended yesterday. The market will climax the spring wholesale trade shows.

Scheduled events include the merchandise fair, the wash apparel show, all in the Palmer House; the women's, infants', and children's spring showings, corset show, china, glass, and pottery markets, the gift show, all in the Merchandise Mart, and the seasonal exhibits of the style creators in the Morrison hotel and in their showrooms.

FIRST OF N. A. M. GUIDES TO PEACE OUTPUT ISSUED

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—The National Association of Manufacturers today released the first two of five planned "guides to post-war preparation."

Norman W. Wilson, president of the Hammermill Paper company and a member of the committee producing the booklets, said rapid technical progress and new processes have made many old products and methods obsolete. He predicted marked changes in the industrial labor force during the transition period and more competition as expanded war industries seek outlets for peace time production.

To meet these problems one N. A. M. booklet recommends that companies study their organization for best utilization of key employes, provide for sufficient working capital, develop plans and study facilities, seek to reduce costs, review markets, analyze long range policies, and develop new products. The second of the series of booklets deals with development along these recommended lines in the building up of sales policy and organization.

FEBRUARY FOOD PROSPECT TOLD BY BIG RETAILER

New York, Jan. 30 (AP).—Fresh fruits and vegetables and fish will be in good supply in February, poultry and dairy products will be on the critical list, and meat supplies will be about the same as now, the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company said today.

Potatoes, cauliflower, lettuce, celery, citrus fruits, and avocados will be plentiful, the company said in a report on the food outlook.

Other forecasts for February included:

Turnips and carrots will be in fair supply and new cabbage is due next month. Onions are short. Apples will continue scarce, pear supplies will be small and fewer strawberries are anticipated.

Fish should continue ample to meet demand unless there is a cold wave. Butter and cheese will remain critically short and demand for both is increasing. Supplies of chicken and fowl will be slight and ducks, geese, and turkeys are practically off the market. Eggs probably will continue in good supply.

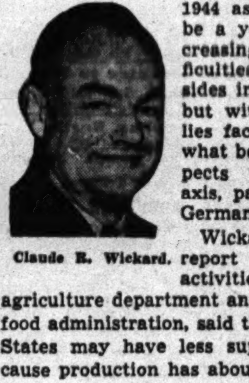
SMALLER FOOD SUPPLY LIKELY, SAYS WICKARD

Output at Peak, but Demand Grows.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard today described 1944 as likely to be a year of increasing food difficulties for both sides in the war, but with the allies facing somewhat better prospects than the axis, particularly Germany.



Claude R. Wickard.

Wickard, in a report covering activities of the agriculture department and the war food administration, said the United States may have less supplies because production has about reached the top, while overseas demands are increasing.

Britain's Position Improved.

The situation elsewhere was outlined as follows:

Great Britain—With domestic production greatly increased and the oceanic shipping situation improved, that country should be in a position to maintain its present standards of nutrition.

Russia—Millions of civilians face "actual starvation." Food for noncombatants has been cut to the barest minimum with black bread the main food and meat available only on rare occasions.

Germany—The situation is substantially better than it was in the comparable period of the World war, but a downward trend from the earlier years of this war has been "clearly apparent for some time."

Occupied Lands in Need.

German occupied Europe—Conditions have deteriorated further, except in Greece, where a slight improvement from the famine conditions of 1942 was noted. Reductions in supplies reflect smaller imports, reduced production, and German seizures.

Japan—Considered in terms of the territory it dominates, the Japanese empire is in "a favorable food situation." A continuation of this situation is conditioned largely upon Japan's ability to transport products from distant territories.

China—A reduction in production resulting from war disruptions and ruthless requisitioning of food by the Japanese has resulted in "hunger and famine in many parts of China."

Meat Products Scarce.

Wickard said the world food situation in general is characterized by a scarcity of animal protein foods, particularly meat and dairy products. He said this is in spite of the fact that 1943 production in the Americas and in the United Kingdom and the dominions was at a record level.

"In areas now accessible to the united nations, except for Russia, the total food production and transportation facilities seem adequate to meet the present consumption needs," he said.

"But because of growing needs for our armed forces and for liberated areas and the pressure of a large civilian purchasing power, 1944 may be characterized by greater scarcities for some foods than was 1943."

Analyzing this country's situation, he said it seems probable the level of total production we can expect in 1944, with normal yields, will be close to the maximum under war time conditions and that only minor changes will develop for the remainder of the war period.

"Food requirements, however, will continue to rise," he said. "Tentative estimates for 1944 and 1945 indicate large increases in the requirements over 1943 supplies."

Cattleman Lays Recurrent Meat Crises to U. S. Policies

New York, Jan. 30 [Special].—Claude K. McCan, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association, today said hasty and ill-conceived government directives were the cause of recurrent meat shortage. The situation, he said, will be "extremely serious" in the months just ahead and only a consistent and broad policy could ease it.

"A prime example of how the government has sought to regulate meat with very harmful results is the present acute feed shortage," McCan said. "Farmers must be weary of hearing the weather blamed, in official statements, for the feed shortage which is cutting down our supply of good beef and dairy cattle.

Holds Grain Is Adequate.

"The fact is that the total feed grain supply this year is larger than for any past year except 1942. True, the number of animals requiring feed has increased, but the supply per animal is very close to the 1937-'41 average when no one thought to complain about a feed shortage."

The blame belongs not on the weather, McCan said, but on regulations that discourage the feeder operations, including live cattle ceilings and threats of government allocation of all cattle produced, so that the owner of live stock would no longer decide when and where to market his cattle.

Cites Industry's Solution.

A practicable solution of the nation's meat problem, McCan said, has been evolved after extended study and coöperation by a group representing every sector of the live stock industry.

He referred to the meat management plan which was originally indorsed by the heads of the office of price and war food administrations and the army quartermaster general's office. The plan is designed to "adjust demand to supply chiefly thru rationing to civilians and adjustment of government buying to the meat that is actually available."

Profit in 1942 was $557,827, or $2.32 a share. Fourth quarter net income was placed at $182,985, or 76 cents a share, compared with $252,801, or $1.05 a share, for the last quarter in 1942.

MARY

You know what happened when Mary took her little lamb to Pittsburgh.

But what did Mary and her little lamb expect?

And what do the radicals and reformers expect, in Pittsburgh or anywhere else, when occasionally the profit motive is giddied into excess by the industrial magic of America?

Shall we for this barter the smoke stacks of Pittsburgh for the ruins of Pompeii?

AUTHORIZE SALE OF SMALL TOOLS TO SOUTH AFRICA

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30 (AP).—The foreign economic administration and the government of the Union of South Africa announced today the opening of commercial trade channels for direct orders between South African importers and American exporters of small hand tools for non-military use.

Each order, when cleared, will be shipped separately and directly to the consignee in South Africa.

The new procedure, subject to wartime governmental controls, provides that each South African merchant will submit orders for six months' forward requirements, designating the name of the desired United States supplier with each order.
